(By The Associated Press)
Russia's Ukraine armies were reported today to have recaptured 4,000 square miles of territory on the Rostov-Donets basin front, wresting "hundreds" of villages from the fleeing Germans, while in the north, Soviet dispatches admitted that the Nazis had opened a violent new onslaught northeast of Moscow.

The German push, it was reported, broke through Red army defenses just below Klen, 50 miles north of Moscow, and continued eastward toward Dmitrov, 40 miles due north of the U.S.S.R. capital.

On the southern front, the Soviet radio said Marshal Semion Timoshenko's armies driving west through the Donets river basin and along the Sea of Azov, had reached the Mius river "where the Germans are trying to form a new front."

Two Red army spearheads were reported racing ahead in an attempt to hem up the Germans retreating toward Mariupol, 100 miles west of Rostov-on-Don.

Rear Holds Out
Soviet dispatches acknowledged that German rear-guard detachments were still holding out in parts of Taganrog, 40 miles west of Rostov-on-Don, but said the Russian flag was flying again over the city.

A communique from Adolf Hitler's field headquarters asserted in broad general terms that fresh Russian attacks on the southern (Ukraine) front had been "frustrated." It gave no details.

A Berlin spokesman insisted that "the front is somewhere between Rostov and Taganrog."

On the Moscow front, the Russians reported that Red army tanks, infantry and Cossack cavalrymen had checked a German threat against the southern flank of the capital's defense arc, driving the Axis from four points in the Stalinogorsk sector, 120 miles southeast of Moscow.

The Germans there had been executing a wide flanking maneuver to the east, attempting to encircle the munitions city of Tula, 100 miles south of Moscow.

A Soviet broadcast declared

(By The Associated Press)
Britain's North African armies were credited today with beating off two heavy Axis attacks on Ed Duda, in the bloody battle zone south of Tobruk, but a new setback was acknowledged in the loss of the Gambut supply base 40 miles east of Tobruk.

Authoritative London quarters conceded that Axis troops had recaptured Gambut, which the British captured on the second day of Gen. Sir Alan Cunningham's 18-day-old offensive into Libya.

British Middle East headquarters said Axis troops attacked Ed Duda in three waves, suffering heavy casualties in the first two assaults and gaining slightly in the third.

Imperial counter-attacks were declared to have regained most of the lost ground, however, with the Axis forces again suffering heavily in killed and wounded.

A British bulletin said New Zealand troops mopping up along the Egyptian-Libyan frontier had routed the remnants of a German-Italian column, which fled westward.

The German high command stressing aerial attacks against the British desert forces, and Axis soldiers repulsed imperial reconnaissance forces in relatively light ground operations during the day.

A Nazi military spokesman said British tank losses under the attack of Axis bombing planes ran "very high."

The Italians declared that the situation was "favorably static" for the Axis and said the British corridor to Tobruk was now "evidently definitely eliminated."

Area Schools Face Shortage of Paper

Rural Community Grades Report Present Trouble in Getting Supply

Difficulty in obtaining supplies of paper have been encountered in several of the rural community schools, it was learned today and T-paper, which is used extensively for arithmetic work and composition paper, used for pen and ink work, is being conserved. In addition to the longer time needed to receive shipments, the price of paper this year has increased considerably.

At the Cottickill School, the pupils are being instructed not to waste paper but the supply is still sufficient with careful use. Port Ewen district has not yet felt the lack of supplies. At West Hurley school a definite shortage has been felt of composition paper but the school has received all text books ordered this term.

Superintendent Arthur J. Laidlaw stated that Kingston Schools have sufficient supplies for this year as these items are purchased in yearly lots. However, the Board of Education is considering the advisability of placing orders for next year now.

The trend in all schools is for conservation, even though the supply at present seems to be sufficient.

New York Will Get Big Battle When Records Are Sought

La Guardia-O'Dwyer Will Clash in Bitter Fight Over Prosecutor's Police Records

New York, Dec. 5 (P)—Come Monday, New York is in for a revival of one of the biggest and bitterest political battles in history.

In this corner, wearing the black sombrero—Mayor F. H. La Guardia; in this corner, hatless—Brooklyn District Attorney William O'Dwyer.

City hall will be the scene; the issue at stake the records of the Kings county prosecutor on police activity in smashing Brooklyn's murder syndicate.

There in the ancient brown building the recent rivals for the mayoralty are scheduled to renew a battle begun in campaign days with the mayor and the district attorney saying in effect: "Give me those records."

"Try and get 'em."

Behind the smoldering feud, which first flared in the public eye Tuesday night with O'Dwyer's refusal to turn over the data on the kill-for-cash ring, lies some hangoverish ill-feelings from the election.

Bals Has Resigned

Already, Acting Police Captain Frank C. Bals, head of O'Dwyer's staff of city detectives, has resigned his post rather than be caught in the middle of a fight between his close personal friend, O'Dwyer, and his superiors, the police department and the mayor.

So angry was O'Dwyer at what he termed efforts by the mayor to "hamstring" his investigations into Brooklyn racketeering and crime that he threatened yesterday to take his fight to Governor Lehman, but later decided to postpone any such action until the meeting Monday.

A possible reason for the mayor's request for O'Dwyer's files was given by Budget Director Kenneth Dayton, who said that the prosecutor had asked for a $45,000 addition to his budget and who added:

"O'Dwyer is already overboard. At his rate of expense, he's going into debt, proportionately, faster than any other city department. His request for more money is being held up to see what can be done to cut down these expenses."

Countered O'Dwyer: "I am glad to give the mayor any information he may wish on disbursements during our investigation and successful prosecution of this band of cut-throats (the murder ring); but he has asked for things which encroach upon my duties and upon public interest."

"The mayor is asking for some things he should not ask for. I feel he has a personal interest in them, and he will not get them."

Heiselman Says Increased Costs of Living Prompt Raises for Municipal Employees

Adoption of a revised wage and salary schedule for employees and directing Acting Superintendent Max Oppenheimer to purchase the Snogo rotary plow and snow loader which was displayed at the Board of Public Works barn on Wednesday, were the principal items of business taken up at the meeting of the Board of Public Works on Thursday afternoon.

The Snogo was purchased of the Good Roads Machinery Company, which has an office in Catskill. The board stated that the city had been allowed a $143 net discount and an allowance of $200 on one of the old city trucks, which made the net purchase price of the loader $7,051.10.

At the November meeting of the board Mayor Heiselman and Acting Superintendent Max Oppenheimer were named to comprise a committee to investigate and adjust the wages of the employees of the board.

Mayor Heiselman said that the (Continued on Page 19)

Freeman Newsboys Join as U. S. Defense Agents

Additional Freeman carrier boys are signing the special Treasury Department pledges for the sale of ten-cent Defense Savings Stamps and are now ready to collect the orders. The first delivery of stamps will be made on Friday, December 12.

An order blank for the defense stamps appears daily in The Freeman.

These carrier boys have been designated as "Official U. S. Defense Agents" and they are giving of their time and energy in genuine patriotic fashion. They are not being paid for their work. The Freeman has the role of bookkeeper, buying the stamps and distributing them to the newsboys for delivery.

Uncle Sam has enlisted the services of the 500,000 newsboys of America in order to reach the 130,000,000 people who make up our great nation and the response of these boys is a happy commentary on future American citizens.

Chilean Minister Wins

New York, Dec. 5 (P)—Gabriel Gonzalez Videla, Chilean minister to Vichy, waged a 24-hour fight with U. S. Public Health Service officials on arrival by clipper yesterday, but came through victorious and unscratched. They wanted to vaccinate him for smallpox, but he said no, he'd already been vaccinated. It took them 2½ hours to find the certificate proving it in his luggage and now he's en route home without a mark on him.

State Suffers Shortage

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 5 (P)—Delay in obtaining sufficient license plate application blanks because of a paper shortage has caused a week's postponement of the opening date for obtaining 1942 automobile plates. The State Motor Vehicle Bureau first announced the plates would be available December 8, a bureau official said today, but failure to obtain enough application forms from the printer resulted in deferring the opening date until December 15.

Interest in Dog Is Thought Cause Of Ballo Murder

Salvatore Giordona Tells of Buying Farm in Which Ballo Was to Have Share

While her husband was on the witness stand in county court testifying in the trial of the second degree murder charge against Salvatore Trapanio today, Mrs. Salvatore Giordona, one of the prospective witnesses to be called, collapsed at noon in the district attorney's office.

Mrs. Giordona was attended by Dr. Douw S. Meyers and was removed to the Kingston Hospital in an ambulance. She was suffering from nervous strain and hysterics.

Mr. Giordona did not know his wife had collapsed until the trial was recessed at noon, and as soon as he was informed he went to the hospital. The resumption of the trial was delayed until after 2 o'clock to afford him the opportunity of visiting his wife at the hospital and reappearing on the witness stand.

A mythical half interest in a hunting dog which had been left by the previous owners of the Tucker's Corners farm where Joseph Ballo was slain 19 years ago, apparently was the moving cause of the shooting for which Salvatore Trapanio is now on trial in county court.

Salvatore Giordona, who now occupies the place, testified that the farm was bought under contract by himself back in 1922, only a few weeks before the fatal shooting and that Joseph Ballo was to become a partner in the place just as soon as he could get funds from Italy to pay for his interest.

On the farm when they arrived in the fall of 1922 was a hunting dog which had apparently been transferred with the farm title. Giordona said on the witness stand that while Ballo had not put up any money at the time of his death he was a prospective partner and consequently since the dog had come as a part of the premises that Ballo was a prospective partner in the dog.

Trapanio Borrowed Dog

It was on the morning of the shooting that Salvatore Trapanio, brother-in-law of Giordona, had borrowed the dog. When he returned it Ballo and he had an argument about the borrowing without Ballo's consent and Ballo told Trapanio that his consent to borrow the dog was necessary. Giordona said he had no differences with Trapanio over the dog and so far as he was concerned he did not consider the borrowing any serious incident.

At the opening of court at 10 o'clock Salvatore Giordona, 65, was called for cross examination by Alonzo Carlino who with his son, John Carlino, appear for the defendant. The entire morning session was taken up with the cross examination which was (Continued on Page 14)

Melbourne Radio Says Break Might Come Any Moment in American-Japanese Relations; Tokyo Keeps Its Gloomy Attitude

(By The Associated Press)
President Roosevelt promptly gave his personal attention today to a document presenting Japan's reply to his request for an explanation of Japanese troop movements into French Indo-China, a crucial factor in current Far Eastern tension.

Tokyo's two envoys required 25 minutes to give Secretary of State Hull their government's answer and after their departure it was rushed immediately to Mr. Roosevelt's desk. The President also arranged a luncheon with Hull for a personal discussion of the document.

Any public word as to the nature of the reply was withheld. The state department referred all inquiries to the White House. But in diplomatic quarters there was speculation that the Tokyo government had chosen to make a statement of policy which from the American point of view could not be considered conclusive or decisive.

No Reply to Note
Ambassador Kichisaburo Nomura and Kurosui, who delivered the reply, did not present an accompanying answer to Mr. Hull's note of November 26 outlining a "basic formula" for a settlement of the Far East crisis.

Nor was there any immediate indication of the nature of the Japanese message, although Tokyo reports had emphasized a gloomy view of the whole situation.

Earlier, the Melbourne radio broadcast reported that a break in relations between the United States and Japan might come at any moment.

Calls It Exaggeration
Kurosui told newsmen he believed the reported number of Japanese troops moving into Indo-China had been "exaggerated," and it seemed a fair conjecture that this was the substance of Japan's explanation to Mr. Roosevelt.

Authoritative Washington reports had estimated the number at 100,000, with thousands more waiting on transports off the Indo-China coast.

Both the United States and Great Britain had expressed concern lest Japan might be planning to invade Thailand as the opening move in a sweeping new campaign of expansion in East Asia.

Door Is Open
Nomura also left the door open for further negotiation, strongly indicating that Japan desired no precipitate action with the state-

"As far as we are concerned, we are always willing to talk—all we are a friendly nation."

Kurosui said nothing definite had yet been decided.

Remain in Capital
The Melbourne broadcast said Australia's cabinet ministers decided to remain in the capital during the week-end when the government received messages indicating that a rupture in Washington had been decided.

Axis Submarine Sinks Ship Captured by British Forces

New York, Dec. 5 (P)—The 7,603-ton former German freighter Uhenfels, captured by the British and renamed the Empire Ability, has been torpedoed and sunk by an Axis submarine operating near the Canary Islands, marine circles reported today.

They said two of the British crewmen aboard were killed and the rest saved.

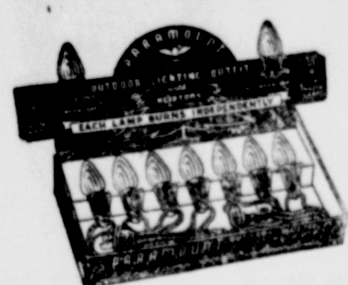

British forces captured the 10-year-old ship in the second month of the war as she sailed along the African coast in an attempt to reach Germany with a $1,000,000 cargo of opium. She was refitted at Gibraltar, used in the Norwegian campaign and damaged slightly by bombing off Brest, France.

Annual Reports Are Given At Benedictine Hospital Ladies Auxiliary Meeting

The annual reports of the secretary and treasurer and various committees were made at the tea and annual meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Benedictine Hospital, Wednesday, December 3.

Mrs. Robert Moseley gave the secretary's report:

Secretary's Report
"Following is a report of the work accomplished by the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Benedictine Hospital since the last annual meeting, which was held on December 4, 1940, in the Nurses' Home, with the president, Mrs. George Moore, presiding.

Officers who served during the year 1941:

President, Mrs. Raymond Craft; first vice president, Mrs. George Moore; second vice president, Mrs. Edward Loughran; third vice president, Mrs. Mary McGill; fourth vice president, Mrs. Sam Mann; fifth vice president, Mrs. Philip Foster; corresponding secretary, Mrs. John Oliver; recording secretary, Mrs. Robert Moseley, and treasurer, Mrs. Frank Egan.

As usual, the year's first undertaking was the decoration of the hospital for Christmas, an activity which is always most rewarding because of the pleasure which it gives those at the hospital during the Christmas season.

The tea dance of the Junior Auxiliary was again given on New Year's Day and as always was one of the outstanding social events of the holiday season.

The results of the annual Easter Monday Ball, both financially and socially, were most gratifying, and the greatest credit must be given to the president and her corps of assistants who gave so freely of their time and to whose work the success of the ball is due.

In September the annual luncheon was given to the nurses at the Governor Clinton Hotel, and a small gift was presented to each nurse. The auxiliary also contributed its usual $100 to the Sister Aloysia Scholarship Fund of $300, which is given annually to the nurse having the highest scholarship average in her class.

The treasurer's report shows a balance of $91.86 in the treasury as of December 1, 1941.

It is with sorrow and a profound sense of loss that we record the passing of Miss Mary McGill, for years our vice president, and always a most loyal and devoted member.

The auxiliary wishes to extend its thanks to all those who have worked to make this year a successful one, and to the newspapers and Station WKNY for the generous publicity they have given us. The sincerest thanks of all the members go to Mrs. Craft for her untiring work in a particularly difficult year; under her leadership, attendance at the monthly meetings has notably improved, and there is evident an increased interest on the part of the members in the work of the hospital and the auxiliary.

The annual election of officers and the Christmas tea is being held this afternoon. Miss Anne Campbell, Mrs. William Bush, and Mrs. Frances O'Connor are our hostesses.

Respectfully submitted,
FLORENCE MOSELEY
Secretary

This was followed by the report of the treasurer and the committee reports.

Sister Berenice Address

Auxiliary Members and Friends:

The organization of the Ladies' Auxiliary is probably the oldest of the organized groups within the voluntary hospital. It is interesting to note that in the beginning women worked as individuals and later in groups. They undertook to do kindly service for the sick poor. Filled with pity they offered their untrained but helpful ministrations. Later these various auxiliaries were established by the authority of the governing body and worked for the general good of the hospital. Today all forward-looking hospitals are deeply aware of the valuable service given by the auxiliary members. The ladies' auxiliary, although working in a different sphere, has the same objective as the medical, the professional and the auxiliary staffs, namely the advancement of the hospital in one or another phase of its programs of service to the community.

Fortunate indeed is the Benedictine Hospital with its corps of active auxiliary members who have always been loyal and faithful since their organization by Sister Aloysia shortly after the hospital was established. Notwithstanding the serious financial conditions of the past several years, the auxiliary members have always been willing and ready to undertake their various activities.

This same spirit has encouraged our very capable and efficient president, Mrs. Raymond E. Craft, who has had a most successful year. The meetings have been well attended and all members have manifested a fine spirit of helpfulness. At the time of the Ball they were unanimous in giving their support to Mrs. Craft, the general chairman, as all realized that such an undertaking required the interest and support of many hands and minds and hearts for its success. The patron list was splendid and the response of the public and merchants was all that could be desired. The publicity was exceptionally good and kept the public well informed. We were also indebted to Station WKNY for their generosity in carrying the message of the ball into the homes of the community.

The nurses were remembered as usual on the occasion of their graduation when the class was entertained at luncheon by the auxiliary members.

The contribution toward the Sister Aloysia scholarship fund was arranged as in previous years. Members of the auxiliary, assisted by the junior members,

Attention! Your Soldier Or Sailor Friend Needs Different Gifts This Year

By FERD BROWNING

AP Feature Service Writer

New York — Before you check that soldier or sailor man off your Christmas list, take care, gift-giver, take care!

Don't mark him off with "the usual." The gift that rang the bell last Christmas when he was the boy across the street may be just about as useful as a baby alligator in the new home he shares with five or ten thousand men.

There are 1,001 easy-to-get items, though—and in any price range—that he can use and honestly appreciate.

A portrait of a famous president — done up on Uncle Sam's famous green folding paper—is the simplest and surest of the lot.

Cigarettes or tobacco, if he smokes and candy whether he smokes or not are tops.

In the fancy line for smokers, the makers of a lighter that lights in a strong wind have dressed the case with the various service emblems to sell at $3.25. Then there's the lighter without a flame, about $2.

One other item for smokers with a personal touch is a photo-match case. It holds the regular match folder, has a pocket inside for your picture, and sells for $3 in bronze, $4 in silver.

Stationery isn't the best gift, but there's a handy writing kit in cowlhide with space for tablet, envelopes, pen and pencil, a pocket for letters and snapshots and a spot for your picture. It's $8.50.

If your friend is the type that would go for a diary, the manufacturers have taken care of him.

This may strike you as funny, but chances are he'd welcome some sewing equipment. You can get useful kits for from 50 cents to $3.

Shaving sets and toilet kits are good. You can get really fine ones for $2. For $7.50 you can get an officer's toilet kit that hangs spent much time and energy in decorating the hospital for Christmas.

Due to the efforts of the purchasing and sewing committees many pieces of useful linen were made. The needlecraft class of the high school has also prepared many articles of linen for use in the hospital. The articles have been well made and show the result of good training and splendid supervision. In view of the present high and ever increasing cost of linen the completed articles have been doubly appreciated.

We are grateful to our Rosebuds for their interest and assistance particularly at the time of our Easter Ball.

We regret the long illness of Mrs. Mark O'Meara, but it is gratifying to learn that her condition shows signs of improvement.

The members of the junior auxiliary are preparing for their annual New Year's tea to be held at the Governor Clinton Hotel. Their desire to be of assistance to the hospital is commendable and should be encouraged. We trust the many friends of the hospital will cooperate in making this affair as successful as in previous years.

In the passing of Miss Mary McGill the auxiliary and hospital have lost one of their most loyal and faithful members. For years Miss McGill served as vice-president and at all times manifested a great zeal and whole-hearted interest in everything that promoted the good of the auxiliary on a rent wall and unfolds with a shelf on the bottom.

Clothes? Pretty touchy matter, but you can get items he can use to good advantage. If you're not the knitting sort, there's a tan sleeveless sweater, scarf and wristlets combination on the market for about $5.

Most of the boys say bedroom slippers would be most welcome, but they should have leather soles. Bathrobes are pretty good, but they're bulky. A too bulky gift is no good to a soldier.

Now for some comparatively inexpensive items: Horsehide gloves, 95 cents; heavy coat hangers, $1.95 with pants clamp; khaki air pillow, $1; electric pants presser, $1.95; toothbrushes, toothpaste, razor blades; shaving cream; shoe polish (tan for the army, black for the navy); handkerchiefs; comb and brush; shaving lotion.

If you want to really spend money, you can do that, too. A portable radio, $10 up, is tops. Another good gift is a camera.

And there's a specially designed sleeping bag for service men if you have $24 to spend.

Finally there is a little duffel bag, selling for $5, and filled with: Comb, nail file, flashlight, sewing kit, razor blades, memo book, hard water soap, automatic pencil and leads, nail clip, styptic pencil, shoe laces, shoe polish, small first aid kit, old fashioned wick lighter, and dental floss.

was returned to the office of secretary-treasurer.

A review of the annual report of the local club indicates a most successful year. The first annual exhibition was held this fall with an attendance of 350; five members were added to the organization; average attendance at meetings increased from seven to 10 members; and the treasury showed a substantial balance with all bills paid.

Nearly 200,000 acres in Uruguay were planted to sunflowers this year.

The chaos which exists in the world today brings into being forces which are destructive and undermining in every phase of our national life. Never was there greater need for all that is spiritual and constructive. The women's service groups within our hospitals can be a tremendous power for good in those things which we count most precious in our civilization. As such their work should be encouraged, strengthened and developed to the highest possible degree.

Two Are Found Dead

One of two children were found dead today in a gas-filled room and a fourth member of the family was taken to a hospital in a serious condition. Authorities attributed the deaths to coal gas escaping from a defective furnace and identified the victims as: Ida L. Spooner, 37; her son, Stanley, 12 and daughter, Leah, 9. The father, Edgar Spooner, 37, was found unconscious. The family had moved into the house two days ago. Dr. R. L. Stacy, coroner's physician, said they apparently had retired last night with the windows closed and were overcome as they slept.

Stimson Denounces Chicago Tribune

Says A. E. F. Report Is Lacking in Loyalty and Patriotism

Washington, Dec. 5 (AP)—Secretary of War Stimson denounced today as "wanting in loyalty and patriotism" the publication of a purported secret army plan for an American expeditionary force to Europe.

Stimson told his press conference that documents published by the Chicago Tribune represented "unfounded studies of our production requirements for national defense which have been carried on by the general staff as part of their duties in this emergency."

"They have never constituted an authorized program of the government."

"While their publication will

Hudson Faces Dire Shortage of Water

Hudson, N. Y., Dec. 5 (AP)—Seeking to avert a water famine in this city of 11,500, firemen and city employees worked through the night to pump water from Claverack creek into three storage basins.

The danger was discovered yesterday with drying up of the city's main sources of supply. J. M. Wardle, city engineer, declared transfer of water to the storage basins boosted the supply to 5,000,000 gallons, enough, he said, to last two days.

doubtless be of gratification to our potential enemies and a possible source of impairment and embarrassment to our national defense, the chief evil of their publication is the revelation that there should be among us any group of persons so lacking in appreciation of the danger that confronts the country and so wanting in loyalty and patriotism to their government that they would be willing to take and publish such papers."

Government Has Plan

The Tribune asserted yesterday that the government has a plan calling for an A. E. F. of 5,000,000 men and for total armed forces of 10,045,658 men.

Stimson, smiling, voiced his criticism immediately upon returning from the White House where President Roosevelt had told reporters that while he had nothing to say about the Tribune story, the war secretary expected to comment.

Reading from a typewritten memorandum, Stimson asked at the outset:

"What would you think of an American general staff which in the present condition of the world did not investigate and study every conceivable type of emergency which may confront this country and every possible method of meeting that emergency?"

"What do you think of the patriotism of a man of a newspaper which would take these confidential studies and make them public to the enemies of this country?"

Stimson declined to confirm the Tribune statement that Mr. Roosevelt last July directed the war secretary and Secretary of Navy Knox to make an overall survey of means to defeat Hitler, telling an inquirer he would stand on his statement.

Poughkeepsie Man Is Missing After Bridge Collapses

167th Street, Flushing, N. Y.

The missing are:

Samuel E. Norman, 60, of 700 Lewis street, Havre De Grace, Md.

George E. Mahen, 50, of 112 Academy street, Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

Oscar Soderbaum, 42, of 5 Westwood Road, Schenectady, N. Y.

Carl Wanat, 31, of 412 Cedar street, Coatesville, Pa.

Henry E. Thoreaux, 48, of 1853 Main street, Springfield, Mass.

The bridge, which will be the second joining this city and East Hartford, was designed primarily to alleviate a traffic condition that became especially serious with the start of the defense program. Two divisions of the United Aircraft Corporation, employing about 20,000, are situated in East Hartford, and many of the workers live in Hartford. Early morning and late afternoon traffic jams on the one bridge now available are daily occurrences.

When finished, the new bridge will be part of the Wilbur L. Cross highway, a trunk thoroughfare cutting across the state from the Massachusetts state line to the start of the Merritt Parkway in Fairfield county.

It was to have been completed next July 1, but A. W. Bushell, state highway department director of engineering and construction, said difficulties in obtaining steel girders to replace those smashed in the crash probably would delay the opening "anywhere from two to four months."

Bridge 3,200 Feet Long

From riverbank to riverbank, the bridge will be 3,200 feet long and there are two spans 270 feet in length and another of 300 feet.

The contracted cost of the whole project, including approaches, is $4,200,000, which $675,000 is for the substructure and $1,235,000 for the superstructure.

There was no official explanation of the collapse and it appeared none would be forthcoming until completion of the investigation which Governor Robert A. Hurley immediately ordered.

Privately, engineers advanced two theories: that the weight of the structure was too great for the wooden false pier, or that a girder was not "tied up" properly at the permanent pier on the riverbank, causing the whole structure to shift.

The collapsed section would have connected the pier on the west, or Hartford, side of the river with the first of the piers sunk in the river itself.

The crash came just as a crane was about to move an 88-ton girder into place, a difficult and delicate operation.

Dominick C. Barillaro, foreman on a construction job nearby described it this way:

"I was just looking over as they were going to put the hook (of the crane) on it, and I said 'watch that go over.' Then the false pier kicked forward."

The whole structure fell so quickly that the victims had no chance even to cry out.

The only noise was the grinding and tearing sound of crumpling girders and the great splash when the mass hit the river. 15 to 20 feet deep at that point.

Local Group Hears Talk by Dr. Gildea

Mental Hygiene Is Topic at City Conference

Dr. Margaret C. L. Gildea of New Haven, Conn., medical director of the Waterbury and New Britain mental hygiene clinics, was the speaker this noon at one of the weekly clinical pathological conferences of the Benedictine Hospital, in the city laboratory.

Dr. Gildea gave an interesting talk on mental hygiene and of the problems that confronted them in the clinics they held in Connecticut. She said that Connecticut was the birthplace of the mental hygiene movement, and that the first clinic was held about 1915 in New Haven and is still going.

At the present time the clinics in that state are faced with the problems that have arisen from the national defense emergency, especially in the cities where the industrial plants are busy on defense orders.

The cases brought to the attention of the clinics were largely caused by the housing shortage in the cities in that state; by lack of parental supervision of children caused by both parents being employed in plants, and the speeding up of industry whereby workers who had formerly worked but 40 hours a week were now working 72 hours weekly causing an unusual mental strain.

She told of cases where families with five and six children were housed in one room, as it was impossible to find apartments. Rents were high, and if the tenant did not pay the rent they were displaced with no place to go.

She said that naturally with working conditions being speeded up with some industries working day and night shifts with longer hours for the workers that there was, as was to be expected, an increase in the number of accidents in the plants.

She illustrated the points she had made with telling of several cases that had been brought to her personal attention and of how some of them had been solved.

Asked from the floor as to what she considered the real remedy for the situation as it exists, she said that she believed increased government spending; the money to be used for creating day nurseries and more schools, houses and hospital facilities.

Dr. Gildea in reply to questions said that the clinics with which she was connected were private and not state controlled, but they worked in co-operation with the state health department of Connecticut.

These weekly conferences are held as a rule at the Benedictine Hospital, but the one today was held in the city laboratory as the meeting room used would accommodate a larger audience than usually attends the hospital clinics.

CHRISTMAS SEALS AT WORK

Although the yearly Christmas Seal sale to provide funds for fighting tuberculosis is a national affair, the average citizen's interest lies in the local benefits. The tenth anniversary of the opening of the new Ulster County Tuberculosis Hospital will be observed on Sunday and the list of accomplishments is noteworthy.

Since the hospital was opened in 1931, 698 patients have received treatment for varying periods of time. Of these patients 496 have been improved or the disease arrested and have been discharged to their homes. In 1931 the death rate in Ulster county was 75.2 per cent. Since that time it has been as low as 38 per cent.

Tuberculin tests for children and members of families of known cases, fluoroscopic examinations, X-rays and case histories of selective service men, health education lessons by means of films, booklets and charts, campaigns for early diagnosis, special lectures for nurses, school workers and teachers and studies of sources of new cases of tuberculosis are part of the year-round work of the staff of the local hospital.

Similar work is being done all over the country. Some of it is advanced, some of it barely begun. It all spells ultimate conquest of a formerly widespread plague. Remember, as you buy your Christmas Seals and put them on your holiday mail, that you are sharing in protection of yourself, your family and your nation.

STATE THRIFT

California—believe it or not and explain it as you like—is going on a cash basis next February. We refer, of course, to the state government. It is now paying off the last of its debts, incurred largely for public relief during the bad years, and tax revenues are rising.

Various other states are said to be almost in the same enviable position, with no standing public debt to weigh them down like that of the federal government. Ohio boasts of a fat surplus in the treasury. This is a field where there are fine opportunities for patriotic competition. It is grand that so many states can be thrifty, or at least appear so, at a time when Washington's federal debt is so vast and rolling up faster than ever.

In fairness, however, it should be recognized that the states appear thrifty mainly because Washington itself has assumed so much of their burdens for public relief, highways, bridges and so on. And the states themselves are not so lucky about that as local patriots usually seem to think, when they have wangled another big improvement out of Uncle Sam. Some states have done better for themselves than others have, in such procedure, but they all join in paying the federal taxes, and in the long run they may come out about even.

CITY PEOPLE AT FARM SHOW

That great livestock show that opened at Chicago the other day with a record attendance of more than 100,000 people presented a handsome array of cattle, horses, swine and sheep. But that wasn't all. The Chicago Daily News described another interesting feature in these words—

"Curious, wide-eyed city folk admired and handled the cattle waiting to enter the arena while apple-cheeked young showmen from the farms of America good-naturedly smiled back."

Wide-eyed country folk are supposed to come to the city and be entranced by big buildings, swiftly moving traffic, bright lights, and all the rest. That's what they used to do, on rare occasions. But today good roads and automobiles enable farmers to get to town easily for business or pleasure, and the movies nearer home have introduced them to the wonders of the city so frequently that they now take them quite calmly, and prefer the country.

No mere movie, however, can do justice to purebred livestock, groomed to a high state of beauty and paraded before expert judges. The country people are producing such stock more and more these days, and it is left for city people, who never raise any animals but pet cats and dogs, to attend the shows with awe and admiration.

Now wouldn't it be nice if about a million Americans sent a note to Hitler expressing sympathy for the tough luck he's been having?

They say at Washington that our strategy is to use submarines against Japan, but Americans prefer to fight openly and above-board.

One crisis just leads to another these days and no climax ever manages really to be a culmination of anything.

A few weeks more, and this wrangling nation will be settled down to a reasonable degree of cooperation.

Pistols taken from gunmen in American cities are being sent to England. They have quite a police job to do over there.

As the copper famine grows, Old Man Mars may yet be grabbing the children's pennies.

What about saving face for the Japanese people instead of their mis-leaders?

Wake Island seems to be waking up and there's a filip in the Philippine news.

It isn't evident that the world turns on Hitler's "axis".

THAT BODY OF YOURS

BRAIN AND BODY

A few years ago when a patient consulted a physician about his 'mental' condition or if in the course of the examination mental symptoms were found, the patient, in the great majority of cases, was referred to a mental specialist.

Today, the brain and nervous system are recognized as an intimate or integral part of the whole body. This means that body disorders—stomach, teeth, nose and throat disorders—can affect the nervous system and the behavior of the individual, just as a slight temporary disorder of the brain and nervous system can affect these same organs.

It is not uncommon to see how fear or worry (chronic fear) can upset the heart, stomach, intestine and even the lining of the nose. On the other hand, a sluggish liver and gall bladder, constipation, an infected ear, can change the behavior of an individual who is really normal mentally.

Whether the brain is to blame for early behavior symptoms, or the stomach or other organ to blame, the general physician now handles the case himself as he carefully examines the patient from both standpoints.

The word psychosis is now in everyday use. It means that the individual is behaving strangely or in an unusual manner. He may think he has some disease of one or other of the body organs, or he may have delusions about himself—his ability or lack of ability. In any case, he is not in the right mood, not balanced enough to be his real self in the community.

Dr. Liber, in the New York State Journal of Medicine, states that patients with early psychoses are mental 'transition' cases; that the condition is only temporary and need not become worse. He puts these early cases which go first to their family physician into four classes:

(a) Patients with psychotic or behavior symptoms only.
(b) Patients with psychotic symptoms and also other symptoms—stomach, heart, intestine.
(c) Patients with a physical disease concealed by mental symptoms such as infected teeth, tonsils, ears.
(d) Patients with mental disease with symptoms of some physical ailment.

The thought then is that brain and body cannot be separated from the standpoint of symptoms. The physician should first be consulted when early behavior symptoms appear.

Are you convinced you have some ailment although medical tests do not reveal it? Sometimes feel 'compelled' to do things? Send today for Dr. Barton's interesting booklet entitled 'Neurosis' (No. 103) which explains how such conditions are handled. Address your request to The Bell Library, Post Office Box 75, Station O, New York, N. Y., enclosing ten cents to cover cost of handling and mailing and mention the Kingston Daily Freeman.

BABSON ON BUSINESS

STOCKS AND TAXES
Babson Shows Why Market Does Not Go Up

Babson Park, Mass., Dec. 5.—What's the matter with the stock market? I am convinced that much of the answer lies with the tax situation. Present taxes are an aid to higher dividends, but a millstone around the neck of investors. Readers should remember that about one-half of Government income comes from Excise Taxes and about one-half is obtained from Corporation and Personal Income Taxes. Customs Duties, while formerly a large source of income, have now dried up. It is with Corporation and Personal Taxes that investors are directly concerned.

Effect of Taxes
Many of us were brought up to believe that stock prices were governed only by good or bad corporation earnings. This is not true today. International complications, fear psychology, and principally taxes are now in the picture. Excess profits can amount to as much as 60% and must be computed before normal taxes of 31% are deducted. Profits of many corporations may continue high but the cream is gone. The market can no longer look forward merely to earnings as an incentive for higher prices. The worst feature, however, of the new taxes is their effect in putting overboard "profits" and in aiding New Dealers to put a ball and chain on merchants, manufacturers, and bankers.

Formerly, corporations could pile up reserves in good years to tide them and their stockholders over lean years. Today, however, under the "undistributed profits" tax of Section 102 of the Revenue Act, there is no "fat" left. Under the present forcing system of social changes many fine "blue chip" companies in the next depression (and one will surely come) will be obliged to go to the Government for help. That's exactly what our present Government wants them to do. Then, in exchange for continuing managerial jobs and providing some interest for bondholders, Government may insist upon working control through taking over the rights of stockholders.

Position of Stockholders
Owners of common stocks providing high returns and relative safety are now in a wonderful position. This applies particularly to those in the lower-income brackets. From the point of view of collecting individual taxes the Government must allow corporations to distribute sufficiently high earnings to warrant the payment of generous dividends. Hence, I feel that while there will be a lot more talk about raising corporation taxes, that these corporations will be allowed to raise prices proportionately. This is why Secretary Morgenthau's proposal to limit the profit of corporations to only 6% did not receive any support even in New Deal circles. Stockholders should not be too concerned about increased personal taxes. In many instances these can be passed on. This is true in the ownership of rentable property where higher taxes can be overcome by raising rents. Investors are also realizing that currently high yields for stocks are solving their tax problems. Whereas five years ago an investment of $10,000 might yield 5%, or $500, today the investor may find his taxes increased by $300 to $500. Hence, he looks around for, and insists upon, yields of 8% to 10% for any new investment. Switching of old investments may also have the desired results. Thus, a wide-awake stockholder can have sufficient income to meet his increased tax bill and money left over for his customary spending needs. This very fact, however, keeps down the market prices of these stocks.

What About Bond and Preferred Stockholders?
Owners of bonds and preferred stocks are confronted with low yields, high prices, and fixed incomes. If this group continues to hang on to these they will be unable to meet their increased tax bills unless they drastically cut their personal expenditures. If and when they get wise to the yields obtainable in common stocks and start switching, a slump should certainly result in prices for many bonds and preferred stocks. This possibility is now hanging over the market and exerting a bearish influence along with tax selling and O. P. M. restrictions.

Every investor should, of course, have some funds invested in certain bonds. Many of these can still be bought on a discount basis with resultant high yields. When switching or making new bond commitments buy only first mortgages. Personally, I am not interested in high-priced, low-yield issues. As a rule, I have always steered clear of preferred stocks. They are a hybrid investment. Now is the time to forget high-priced bonds and preferreds in favor of good common stocks. The reasons are clearly obvious to every thinking investor. Incidentally, when buying common stocks select those companies which have no funded debt or cumulative preferreds outstanding.

I am bullish on selected stocks over the long pull. It may be, however, that there will be no boom in stock prices until taxes come down or dividends increase still more. But whichever of these two factors prevails, stockholders

Labor Is Trying Hard to Make Country Believe Smith Bill Is Harsh Measure

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Dec. 5.—A determined effort is being made by the labor leaders to give the country the impression that the Smith bill which has passed the House is a drastic measure.

Actually the true test of whether it is drastic or not is whether under its provisions, the United Mine Workers could have called the recent captive mine strike. The fact is that nothing in the Smith bill prevents a recurrence of the coal strike and interruption to production if labor unions wish to ignore the pleas of the President.

The new bill does require certain publicity about union affairs but the United Mine Workers union could easily comply with it. As for the provision that a strike vote must be taken before a strike can be called, this is the easiest kind of a hurdle for a national union to overcome. The railroad brotherhoods have shown how to do it. Several months in advance of an important negotiation, the members take a strike vote and authorize their executive committee to negotiate, call a strike or end it as their judgment may best indicate.

As for the provisions against mass picketing, this is really in the common law and the state and city police power if the local authorities care to enforce the law. They have ignored this before and there is no reason to believe politically appointed officials will be any less prejudiced in the future than in the past toward the labor groups.

The one thing that makes a piece of labor legislation drastic is whether it abolishes the right to strike. This the Smith bill does not do. The National Railway Mediation Act postpones but does not eliminate the right to strike and provides a compulsory period of cooling off. If this is "totalitarianism," as William Green of the A. F. of L. calls the Smith bill, then America has had it and the railroad brotherhoods have opened under it for many years.

The labor lobbies are busy. The administration is already playing politics and the Senate will in due time be under pressure to emasculate the Smith bill and strip it of such provisions as require a government of law and order instead of a supergovernment of mass picketing by unionists.

The element of compulsion is lacking in the Smith bill so far as compelling arbitration. The employer may still be dragged into accepting compulsory union shops. But the unions can still do as they please about interrupting defense production provided they merely coordinate their demands and arrange to file them at specified times after the customary

Washington—Highway parking for war planes of every size from the little "jet" to the giant four-engine bombers is in the wind for the United States.

"Flight strips" they call them and the kickoff came the other day when the President signed the new defense highway bill. The measure provided more than two hundred million dollars for defense highways. The bill has been bootlegged around among various agencies, Congress and the White House for nearly a year. Even in its final form, the President didn't like it and said so. That made news. What didn't make news was a little proviso for $10,000,000 for "flight strips."

The paltriness of the sum caused one army official to dub it "nothing more than a strip tease." His humor struck pretty near the truth. Ten million dollars is not going to line our strategic highways with "flight strips" but it is a beginning and one which army aviation engineers see as a forerunner of the day when every important highway will have roadside parking for airplanes as common as hamburger havens.

The term "flight strip" almost defines itself. It is nothing more than a runway, 3,000 to 5,000 feet long and 150 feet wide, built along the principal lanes of motor travel.

The idea isn't new. At least 10 years ago it was being put forward by Lieut. Col. S. Hanks, of the Army Air Corps. But like most of the innovations in combat aviation which now are being hailed as the very latest things, it was put by as a lot of expensive fold-de-roll that well could be shaved out of the defense budget of a peaceful nation.

Commercial aviation, however, did recognize the established principle of motor traffic that automobile travel grew only as good highways grew. So commercial aviation set up its auxiliary or emergency landing fields. That is mostly what the "flight strip" is, but it is something more.

Except in the most mountainous areas, there are intervals along our highways where right-of-way could be obtained sufficiently level to construct these strips. Because of terrain, or prevailing wind directions, they would not always parallel the highways—but they would be so near by that the highway could serve as guide lines.

Within five to 100 miles of major airports, they would serve as perfect dispersal "ports" to which a vast air force could rapidly take refuge in case the main base was attacked or destroyed. Being no more than single strips (runways now are being made of a material that takes and holds paint) they could be easily camouflaged, with hangars and shops appearing no more than one of the million clusters of barns and farm houses that dot the country side.

Although first locations of the flight strips have not been announced, it is considered certain they will be along the northeastern seaboard and at other points near the coast believed most vulnerable to air attack.

It's just what the army air officials see it as the first step in solving the problem that has plagued Germany and England in their air blitzes—the inability to get enough planes in the air at one time to hold air superiority, and the inability to provide enough emergency landing fields for planes forced down by fuel, weather, or exhausted fuel supply.

SMOKERS MUST CUT DOWN

Smokers of Sweden must be content with fewer puffs. Because of the shortage of tobacco the manufacturer of pipe tobacco has been reduced from 50 brands to two. Cigarettes are now made with paper mouthpieces to save nearly 900 tons of raw tobacco a year. Threats of panic purchases of cigarettes caused the rationing of all tobacco products sold to retailers.

Flashes of Life

Turns the Tables

Pittsburgh—Up in Elk county of the northwestern Pennsylvania big game country there's a deer carrying a gun. Deputy Sheriff John Slavin sheepishly told friends the gun was his.

Slavin fired at the handsome 12-point buck and it toppled over. Thinking it was dead, the hunter started to tie a tag on his prize. He stacked his gun on the animal's antlers to facilitate matters. As though that was just what the wily buck was waiting for, it sprang up and fled—plus the gun.

Slight Error

New Albany, Ind.—Ten-year-old David Schilling of Sellersburg, missing overnight, told a motorist who picked him up near New Albany he was hitchhiking to California.

Capt. Ben Skinner, questioning David a little later at police headquarters, asked him how much of a trip he was figuring on. "It's only 197 miles to California," the boy said.

"It's 2,000 miles," corrected the captain.

David said he wanted to go home.

Good Enough

San Diego, Calif.—Pvt. Lopez Roberts wasn't sure whether he'd make a good soldier—he'd never even had so much as a .22 rifle in his hands.

His Texarkana, Tex., draft board wasn't certain either—they deferred him once before sending him to Camp Callan.

Private Roberts has just been declared Camp Callan's champion selected marksman—he scored 186 out of a possible 200.

Inventory

New Castle, Ind.—Letha Sailors of Muncie reported to police her purse had been lost or stolen. In it, she said, were:

A hunting case watch, an open-face watch, a diamond ring, two yellow gold rings, a ring made from a dime, a gold wire pin, a Red Men's lodge pin, other pins, an American flag, a pearl-handled knife, a sliding blade knife, a fountain pen, two automatic pencils, a flashlight, a driver's license, a social security card and two books.

Take a tip from the Old-Timers

TRAVELING around town here, all unnoticed among newer, brighter, sleeker models, you'll find a lot of faithful old Buicks that are still in service after six, eight, ten or even more years of use.

They may look sort of funny next to trim 1942 models, and they undoubtedly don't get off as fast on the lights.

But it's worth noting that these sturdy old Buicks are still running, still serving faithfully and well.

Because they have the same basic type of engine as the sleek 1942 Buick—a rugged, long-lived, extra-efficient valve-in-head, though it is now made better by FIREBALL combustion.

They have the same dependable drive—a stout torque tube encasing a sturdy steel shaft stretching its unbroken length from transmission to rear axle.

Frames are fundamentally the same now as then; brakes, though hydraulic now, use the same, efficient, self-energizing action. These Old-Timers even used the same piston material.

All the factors that make for strength and long life are present today as in the past—plus such further advances as all-coil springs that never lose their comfort, Domite pistons that squeeze more good from gasoline, Compound Carburetion that spells peak economy with unmatched reserve power.

There's more comfort, more convenience, more beauty, more power in these '42 models—dollar for dollar there's far more value than the old-timers had.

But what counts most, in view of what seems ahead, is that they're still Buicks—tough, rugged, dependable—good to the last mile.

Take a look at what your next car is likely to be up against and ask yourself if it isn't smart to get a car right now that you'll some day know as "old faithful."

SERGEANT YORK ON LIBERTY

For those who are quick to call any patriotic utterance propaganda, and discount every warning of America's peril as something cooked up by the warmongers, an American whose honesty and sincerity are unquestioned has provided an answer.

He is a simple man, whose life has held a full share of hardship. His reward has been more of honor than riches. He is a religious man, and shares the most ardent isolationist's hatred of war, yet he knows instinctively that there are some things that must be preserved at all cost.

He is Sergeant Alvin C. York, greatest soldier hero of the American Expeditionary Force in the first World War. These are his words:

"Liberty is not merely something the veterans inherited. Liberty is something they fought to keep... There are those in our country who ask me and the other veterans who fought in World War One: 'What did it get you?' Let me answer them now. It got me 23 years of living in America where a humble citizen from the mountains of Tennessee can stand on the same platform with the President of the United States. It got me 23 years of living in a country where the Goddess of Liberty is printed on Men's hearts, and not only on the coins in their pockets. People who ask us that question, 'What did it get you?' forget one thing. True, we fought the last war to make the world safe for democracy, and we did for a while. The thing they forget is that liberty and freedom and democracy are so very precious that you do not fight to win them once—and then stop. Liberty and freedom and democracy are prizes awarded only to those peoples who fight to win them and then keep on fighting eternally to hold them."

Judge—Now, sir, please tell the court exactly what passed between you and your wife during the quarrel.

Defendant—A flat-iron, rolling pin, six plates and teakettle.

Quality isn't something that can be argued into an article or promised into it. It must be put there; the finest sales talk in the world won't act as a substitute.

Dentist—Stop waving your arms and making faces, sir. Why I haven't even touched your tooth.

Patient—(pulling gasp from mouth)—I know you haven't but you're standing on my corn.

Did you ever pause to think how the bloody mass-murder of World War II will read in the history books of our great-grandchildren? Some day civilized man will bow his head with shame at thought of the barbaric cruelty and ignorance of his 20th century ancestors.

THE TUG OF WAR

An ambitious, energetic little ant, the patriotic leader of his band, Orated to his comrades: "Boys, you can't build ant hills if you don't tote sand!"

So the termites drew their belts and snuggled.

As each agreed to lend a helping hand.

They showed that each one truly was a plugger.

And convinced the boss they really had the sand.

From all of which we make this observation:

That in building up defenses for our land.

We need tuggers with less thought of compensation.

And more willingness to tote their grain and sand.

Do you know the difference between a rich man and a poor man?

The rich man sleeps with a canopy over his bed.

Private Horse was returning to his post from an evening in the nearby town. He was challenged by the sentry:

Sentry—Halt! Who there?

Soldier—Private Horse.

Sentry—Advance, Private Horse to be mechanized.

Chapter 15

Cousin Jennie Returns

"NOTHING," Alfred said. "No body was there at all."

"Come on an' think! Must have been somebody," Asey said. "Freddy Doane, Mr. Doane, someone."

"Well, I guess Freddy was in the living room. She usually about that time. I don't know. I didn't see her. I went in the back way. I saw her father. Alfred added with a touch of indignation creeping into his voice. He damn near killed me. You guys ought to take that gun away from him, Inspector! It ain't safe, the way he shoots around!"

"What do you mean?" Asey demanded.

"Why, he's got this target in the woods, see? And when his wife ain't there, he shoots. And some day he's going to kill somebody. He shot right pass me this evening when I got out of the car."

"Was you anywhere near the target?"

"No! The target's in the woods!" Alfred said. "But sometimes he just shoots past people. He thinks it's funny. I don't. I think he ought to be stopped. You ought to stop him before somebody gets hurt!"

"I don't know," Asey said, "but what maybe perhaps I won't. Huh. Thanks, Alfred, for tellin' me about that. Now, you went upstairs an' got the dress. That right?"

Alfred nodded.

"And before I got downstairs, the lights went off. I—"

He hesitated.

"You what?" Asey asked.

"I guess Mrs. Doane was there," Alfred said. "I was trying to think. Yes, I guess it was her. I seen at the back door. But there wasn't nobody else there in the whole place. I don't think."

"Alfred," Asey said, "you been a great help an' comfort to me. It's been a real pleasure to do business with you. Alfred. If I didn't think that ambulances was worth it, I might even make you a bigger donation. Get along to Lady Bop, feller. She's most likely swooned with worry by now. An' don't ever let her get hold of a wheel again as long as you live!"

"Say!" Alfred said as Asey turned away. "Say, Inspector, what's your name?"

Asey got into the police car, started it, and grinned as Alfred repeated his question.

The name, he said, "is Mayo."

An I'm 'fraid it'll most likely break your heart, Alfred, but I ain't an inspector, you know, I ain't even a cop. So long, Alfred. See you again."

Six minutes later he parked Hanson's car beyond the Whale Inn's porte-cochere, and walked over toward the front steps.

He was going to gather the Doane family together and have a little talk with them and get to the root of things. If Washy made a habit of potshotting around recklessly at people—

"Psst!"

Asey turned around.

"Psst! Here!"

Someone was beckoning to him from the little strip of open porch he had noticed earlier when he made his circuit of the Inn.

"Psst! Asey!"

"Jennie!" Asey said in bewilderment and hurried over to her.

"Jennie, I thought you'd gone home! What you doin' here?"

"I found her," Jennie said with quiet pride. "I found the body!"

Under The Rocker

"WHAT?" Asey stared at her in disbelief.

"I tell you, I found the body! I found her! Land's sakes, you deaf?" Jennie demanded with some asperity. "You want me to scream it at you?"

"Havin' got to a point where I sort of don't believe my own eyes," Asey said. "I should hate to think I don't believe my own ears, too. How'd you find it? Where is it?"

"Here," Jennie said. "Right here on this porch. See that Boston rocker?"

"Where?" Asey looked around the porch without seeing anything even remotely resembling a rocker, Boston or otherwise.

"For mercy's sake, come here!" Jennie said. "Now, watch!"

Lifting a tarpaulin off something Asey had thought was a small table, Jennie revealed an overturned Boston rocker resting on its arms.

Under it was a body.

It was the body, too. Asey knew it even before he leaned over and struck a match.

"How in the name of common sense did you find out about this?" he demanded.

"You don't sound a bit pleased," Jennie said.

"I probably never was more pleased an' delighted over anything in all my life," Asey assured her. "an' it'll probably please an' delight you to know I just spent considerable time an' effort trackin' down two bodies. One turned out to be a Persian rug, an' the other was a dead goat. So you're way ahead of me. Only, Jennie, I thought you was headed home."

ASHOKAN

Ashokan, Dec. 4.—Mrs. Amelia Morris returned to her home on Mountain Road after visiting her son, Herman Morris, at Brown's Station. He is convalescing after a major operation at the Benedictine Hospital.

Riley Sanford, New York Central agent here, has retired, and he was relieved last Saturday by relief agent, M. H. Mangini of Kingston.

Mrs. Nancy Bell and daughter, Chloe and Nellie in company with Jervis Bell of Kingston visited the family cemetery Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hyser went to Wallkill Sunday and took his sister, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Wynkoop to make a sick call on their brother, William Hyser at Newburgh.

Harrison Barnes of Arkville had supper with cousins, Judge and to feed your husband an' soak his foot."

"I meant to," Jennie appeared unmoved by the insinuation that she was neglecting her husband. "Only then I got to thinkin'."

Asey. It just seemed too bad to leave here with all this excitement goin' on. After all, I can always get Syl's dinner any time. So I phoned Cousin Hat an' asked her if she'd run over an' feed Syl an' look after him."

"I know Hat," Asey interrupted. "an' I got no doubt but what she's feedin' Syl this minute. Whether he wants it or not. What I want to know, Jennie, is how in time you landed on this body!"

"Well," Jennie took a long breath. "I phoned Hanson, an' I phoned Sam—he took the truck back home an' left your roadster on the corner where the truck was. Then I phoned Hat—my, my, I guess I better talk lower. Well, then I had a couple of sandwiches in the drugstore. I brought some back for you, Asey, an' I must say, I don't know what they use ham with at that store. Must use a razor. That ham ain't any thicker than a piece of newspaper, an' I don't know but what newspaper'd have as much taste. I made the boy put on a lot of mustard, so anyway there'll be a taste of something in it. Asey, what do you think she'll do?"

"Who?" Asey felt confused.

"Mrs. Doane."

"What do you mean, what'll she do?"

"Why, I suppose she's goin' to come back an' take this body away. It is she just plannin' to leave it here?"

"What?"

"I think she's comin' back, myself," Jennie said.

"Jennie, what are you talkin' about?"

Mrs. Doane

MRS. DOANE! She's how I found out about the body!

You see, after I did all that phoniin', an' waited for Hanson, an' waited for Sam to bring your over an' all, then I walked over here to the phone booth, an' I couldn't hear any excitement or see you anywhere, so I guessed you'd gone off, an' so I come out back here to wait for you. An' I was sittin' right over the phone booth, an' I didn't see a thing. Jennie pointed to it. "An' out come Mrs. Doane, an' she shook it out. A awful funny time to be dustin' I thought."

"Now, I wonder if she was," Asey said. "I wonder if maybe she hadn't been brushin' out that telephone booth?"

"How in the world did you guess that? The daughter come out an' asked what was doin'."

An' that's just what Mrs. Doane said. Said she'd been brushin' out the phone booth an' didn't find it up. She went back inside then, but a little later she sneaked out an' lifted up this tarpaulin, an' looked. When she went in, I come over an' looked, too. An' I can tell you, I don't know how I had the courage not to let out a loud scream. You suppose Mrs. Doane lugged the body here? She looks strong enough to lug an ox, goodness knows. You think she did?"

Jennie promptly answered her own question. "I do. Because I've been here nearly an hour, an' nobody else's come snoopin' around. She seems to be the only one that knows about it."

"Did she come back?"

"Twice," Jennie said. "She was so quiet the first time I didn't hear her. I don't know how she missed seein' me. But somebody called her, an' she popped back indoors, quick. Little later, she popped out again an' then in again. Just like a jack-in-the-box. What do you think she's goin' to do?"

"Wael," Asey considered. "In one way, I don't like to suggest we wait an' see. Seems to me most all I been doin' tonight is waitin' an' seein', an' not gettin' much of anywhere in the process. Huh. Did you say you had some food for me?"

"Right here in my pocketbook," Jennie said. "suppose we make our way around to that shed, Jennie."

Jennie sighed as she opened her pocketbook a few minutes later in the shadow of the shed.

"Here's a little paper container thing of beef cube soup. Here's the sandwiches. All four of 'em," Jennie said with scorn. "wouldn't make a good-sized mouthful for a fly. An' here's a couple of tarts—very things with that raspberry jam all over 'em. Goodness, it's dripped off all over my bag! Here, Asey, I got a container of coffee in my coat pocket. It's that stuff you make with powder, but it's better than nothin'. An' I got a few candy bars an' some potato chips."

"No finger bowls?" Asey inquired quizzically.

"I got paper napkins in my bag," Jennie returned. "Oh, an' there's pickles. Pickles, pickles, where'd I put those pickles? That's too bad. I must have left 'em there on the counter. Asey, tell me what you found out an' what you been doin'."

WELL GIVES TOWN LIFE

It took an artesian well to give Quilpie Australia, a lease on life. The region is rainless, hot and sticky. Someone thought of an artesian well. The bore tapped a huge lake 2,900 feet below the surface. Every 24 hours a million and a half gallons of scalding water shoots to the surface with a pressure of 178 pounds to the square inch. The well supplies hot and cold water for each house and drives light and power plant.

New York Briefs

New York, Dec. 5 (AP)—With an unusually keen paring knife, the Board of Estimate has slashed $6,170,489.31 from recommended expenditures by the city planning commission and has sent to the city council a proposed 1942 capital budget of $80,834,520.19. The council has until December 27 to adopt the budget.

New York, Dec. 5 (AP)—Next Tuesday the Kings county court will pronounce a mandatory sentence of death upon 26-year-old Frank Davino—for the second time in as many years.

Convicted last night of first-degree murder in the 1938 slaying of Fireman Thomas Hitter during a payroll holdup, Davino goes back to the Sing Sing prison house which he escaped in 1939 when his previous conviction for the same crime was overruled and he was ordered re-tried by the State Court of Appeals.

New York, Dec. 5 (AP)—In an effort to catch red-handed a real-life "raffles" who in the past month has robbed 10 suites in midtown hotels during the dinner hour, 40 detectives have been assigned to mingle with guests in lobbies and near hotel dining rooms.

The sleuths will be garbed in evening clothes.

Use Care in Selection Of New Glass Curtains

Because glass curtains have to take a great deal of wear and tear due to exposure to sun, wind and dirt, considerable care should be exercised in selecting them. Here are some pointers to assist you when shopping for cotton lace, net, marquisette, or organdie curtains.

If the curtain has color in it, make sure it is colorfast so that it will withstand the sun's rays and frequent laundering.

Permanent-finished marquisettes and organdies cut-down work because they do not have to be starched each time.

Buy preshrunk material so that its shape will not change noticeably when laundered. Cloth woven with tightly twisted yarns will shrink less and give better service than fabric made from soft, loose yarns.

Because of the destructive action of the sun on the lower section of glass curtains, it is highly desirable to buy those that have equalized hems at the top and bottom so they are reversible. This prolongs the life of the curtain considerably.

Better curtains have the selvages removed and are hemmed, which prevents uneven shrinking or stretching in laundering and makes the curtain hang better.

Robot Checks Sex Appeal

A machine that accurately measures sex appeal has been invented by Dr. Joseph Cotton, clinical professor of medicine at Stanford university. The machine gives a rating in manpower just as engineers measure the horsepower of steam engines, airplane motors and electric turbines. The ratings can be accomplished with the use of pictures, thoughts or romantic suggestions. The presence of a person of the opposite sex is not necessary.

In a test Marie Dietrich's manpower rating was 141, which made the needle stagger. Carole Landis, with 126 came second; Ginger Rogers with 106 was third and Dorothy Lamour was fourth with the needle registering 101.

NO "TAPS" FOR TROOPS

Canteens in Britain are combining various sources for wooden taps for their cider barrels. The supply from France has run out. Metal taps cannot be used in cider casks because of the acid in apples. A shortage of barrels is also reported. In London it is stated that the wood for these is now imported from the United States, instead of Finland.

Information

As Mayor of the City of Kingston, I take great pleasure in proclaiming Saturday, December 6, Tag Day for the Volunteers of America who operate an Emergency Home and Day Nursery on Barnham Avenue in this city.

The Volunteers of America operate a day nursery to care for those children whose parents or guardians must work during the day in order to support them and therefore during that time are unable to give them the necessary attention and care. In many cases, illness prevents some less fortunate mother from caring for her children properly and the day nursery stands ready to assist. Capable attendants at the home supervise these children and insure them proper food while attending the institution.

An emergency home is operated in conjunction with the nursery principally to assist indigent transient women and provide quarters for juvenile girl delinquents in emergency cases.

In order to carry on this important work, the organization is dependent upon our citizens for financial assistance, and I urge the people of Kingston to contribute through the purchase of tags on Saturday.

Radioactive Chemical May Locate Cancer Spot

One of the more plentiful radioactive chemicals may help medical science to locate hidden cancers three University of California experimenters reported.

They found that at least three types of cancer absorb phosphorus rapidly from the body's food supply and retain it longer than normal tissues.

Radioactive phosphorus, a common product of atom smashing, acts like ordinary phosphorus in the digestive system but it gives off rays and therefore can be traced in the tissues.

The three kinds of cancer—breast carcinoma, lymphoma and lymphosarcoma, were transplanted into otherwise healthy mice.

These abnormal growths, the researchers found, took up phosphorus about as rapidly as did the normal liver, kidneys and small intestine. Previously these three organs were rated as being greater absorbers of the mineral than any other normal tissues.

But there was a significant difference, the experimenters reported, in that the liver, kidneys and small intestine rapidly passed on their phosphorus to other parts of the body, while the cancers held onto it for a relatively long time.

This means, they said, that if radio phosphorus administered to a subject happened to concentrate abnormally in a certain tissue and remain there longer than usual, it might indicate a cancer in that part of the body.

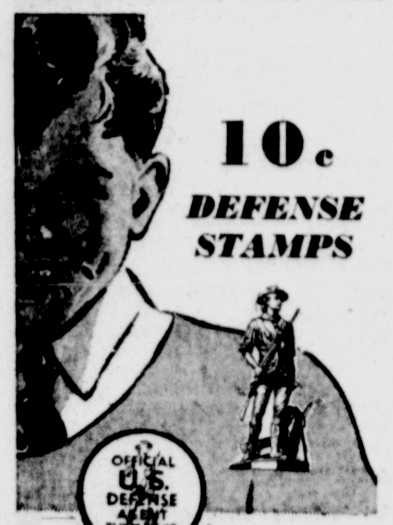

Find Dinosaur Tracks of Triassic Age Monster

A footprint in sandstone of a prehistoric monster of the Triassic age, 150,000,000 years ago, is one of about 15 specimens of dinosaur tracks found in collecting expeditions by Alf and Webb school students of Claremont, Calif.

Although this two-ton carnivorous beast has left only footprints as the sole record of its existence and hence has not been named, it is believed by scientists that it and others of the reptilian age were destroyed by small animals, deadly saboteurs of their day, which invaded nests and ate the dinosaur eggs. That, coupled with the tremendous food requirements of the giant reptiles, some of which consumed as much as 20 tons a day, spelled extinction for the monsters.

Alf's museum of paleontology contains hundreds of specimens collected in the field on summer and other vacation trips, dating from two years ago, throughout the western states. He now is classifying specimens found in his latest expedition to Utah, Wyoming, Idaho, South Dakota and Montana.

Besides the 15 well-preserved dinosaur tracks in sandstone slabs, Alf and his students also have found an additional 45 specimens of footprints of other animals, dating back as far as 200,000,000 years ago.

Public Should Not Be Surprised at New A. E. F. Report

Heavy Pea Souper
Again Hits Region
And Slows TravelFerry Service Is Halted
as River Conditions Are Reported Worst
in Twenty Years

A heavy blanket of fog again enveloped Kingston Thursday night and this morning, halting ferry service between this city and Rhinebeck, and slowing up bus and auto traffic. Last night was the third successive night that Kingston's streets have been affected.

Because the fog was so heavy it was impossible to see more than a few feet ahead, auto traffic in the city last night proceeded cautiously and no serious accidents were reported to the police department.

The fog was so thick Thursday that the trips of the Kingston-Rhinebeck ferry were greatly delayed, and many trips were cancelled. Thursday afternoon the ferry left the Rondout creek at 4:20 o'clock and did not return until 10:30 o'clock that night.

This morning at the ferry office it was said that the ferry was not making any trips this morning, and would not resume trips until the fog lifted sufficiently to make it safe to cross the river.

The highest temperature recorded in the city yesterday by the official city thermometer was at 3 o'clock that afternoon when 60 degrees was recorded. This morning at 8:30 o'clock the thermometer recorded 52 degrees.

Old employees of the ferry company said that fog conditions which have prevailed for the past three days were the most unusual in more than 20 years.

The city was still enveloped in a heavy fog this morning and about 9 o'clock this morning rain began falling.

Poughkeepsie Contractor
Loses in $26,000 Trial

New York, Dec. 5 (AP)—A Queens county Supreme Court jury yesterday returned verdicts totalling $26,000 in favor of Mrs. May Hart in her damage suit against William Long, a Poughkeepsie, N. Y., contractor.

The suits were based on the injury and death of Mrs. Hart's husband, James Hart, who was killed while directing the placing of a steel beam in the construction of the East Park High School at Hyde Park, N. Y., on June 12, 1939.

Mrs. Hart charged that a beam being hoisted by a power crane rented out by the defendant struck a pile of debris and released a large piece of wood which struck her husband on the head and later caused his death.

Defense counsel filed a motion asking Justice Henry Wenzel to rule the $25,000 award for Hart's death and a $1,200 award for his pain and suffering as "excessive." The court reserved decision.

'Mercy' Slayer of Brother?

District Attorney Fred J. Munder said Mrs. Edith Reichert, 35, admitted killing her brother, George Horn, 26, described as a "hopeless" mental patient, in Kings Park State Hospital, Kings Park, N. Y. Horn was shot while his sister and mother visited him.

State Taxpayers
Create Committee
To Help Cut CostsGroup Would Work With Public Officials in Task of Paring
Expenditures

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 5 (AP)—Organized New York taxpayers, hot on the trial of government economy, have created a committee representing 62 organizations to "cooperate with all public officials to eliminate non-essential expenditures."

Some 300 delegates, meeting at the behest of the taxpayers Federation, Inc., and the Citizens Public Expenditure Survey, decided yesterday to establish the New York State Emergency Committee on Non-Defense Spending.

They also adopted resolutions exhorting congress to "effect all possible savings in federal non-essential, non-defense spending" and urging the legislature to use the present surplus to reduce the state budget, limit mandatory legislation on local expenditures and exempt federal income taxes from the state levy. They suggested state action to allow local boards for reviewing property assessments.

The rally heard Republican Senate Majority Leader, Joe R. Hanley, Perry, assert Governor Lehman's 1942-43 state budget "will be scrutinized as no other has ever been scrutinized in the history of New York" and declare relief expenditures should be cut drastically and the number of governmental boards reduced.

Real Estate Association
Asks Rigid Economy

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 5 (AP)—Insistence on rigid economy in state and national government was urged today by the new president of the Real Estate Association of the State of New York.

"The need for many of the bureaus and activities that were carried on during the depression period no longer exists," George L. Long, Brooklyn, declared as he took office.

"The government should put such on-defense items in mothballs until the emergency is passed," he added.

Tenderfoot Plan
Adventurous Trip
Over Bering StraitPair May Spend January 1
With Russians, Would Take Movies, and Write Book

Wales, Alaska (Correspondence of Wide World)—Well into the second month of projected 10 months on the westernmost tip of the western hemisphere, two comparative tenderfoot plan to mush across the ice of Bering Strait to celebrate New Year's Day with their Russian neighbors.

W. D. Pennington, former first aid man for an Anchorage building contractor, and Bob Shankel, Anchorage army base worker, flew to Cape Prince of Wales October 19 via Nome, intent on taking motion pictures, writing a book, trading with the natives, collecting ivory and hunting big game.

They found one other white man at Wales—Cortez L. Crutcher, government school teacher—but chose to rehabilitate a cabin left by prospectors in '89, a mile or so away from the settlement of 193 Eskimos.

Shankel has been in the territory just three years, and Shankel came north only 14 months ago, but both expressed confidence in their ability to cope with eventualities.

Their cabin, on the bleak shore of frozen Bering Strait, is 23 miles from the Russian island, Big Diomedes, and they plan—weather and their intended hosts permitting—to cross by dog sled come New Year's Day.

Their supplies for the 10-month stay in the barren outpost include 20 pounds of hard candies, a carton of chewing gum, four quarts of whiskey, four quarts of rum, 10 pounds of pipe and cigarette tobacco for themselves and seven cartons of tobacco to trade with the natives.

They took a large supply of ammunition for their two rifles and pistols, to keep their larder supplied with fresh meat.

Pennington took a large first aid kit, expecting to be kept busy treating the cape natives' ailments.

In mid-February, Lloyd Pennington plans to fly from Anchorage to join his son and Shankel in a polar bear hunt.

Food From 48 States
To Be Air 'Expressed'

Food from 48 states will be air expressed to New York early next month as a demonstration of the vital part the nation's 19 commercial airlines could play in case of an emergency. Air Express will expedite representative products from the various states such as potatoes from Idaho, sugar cane from Louisiana, apples from Washington and dairy products from Wisconsin.

Under emergency conditions, such as isolation of a community due to flood, famine or enemy attack, commercial airlines could deliver food as far as 2,900 miles overnight. A ton of oranges, for example, can be rushed from Los Angeles to New York in 17 hours.

Air cargoes of food will be loaded aboard airplanes in all states on last-minute notice to simulate a sudden emergency condition. Climax of the flight will be an All-American dinner at La Guardia Field at which the guest of honor will be Monty Woody, former Yale professor widely known as "The Man Who Came to Dinner."

Increasing Arrests
Show Defense Pace

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 5 (AP)—New York's increasing arrests for intoxication reflect the intensified defense effort among men, with women imbibing less than during the last year of prohibition, the State Liquor Authority asserts on this eighth anniversary of repeal.

A "drinking survey" shows 55 of 107 police chiefs reporting more arrests for drunkenness in the first six months of 1941 than in 1940, with 35 noting fewer arrests and 17 saying "no change."

The study indicates women drink no more since 1940 and much less than in 1932-33 chiefs reporting "little or no change."

"Reasons for the reports of increased drinking varied," the authority says "but all were attributed to changes of the defense program. They included increased earning power, longer hours and a desire for relaxation, and the psychological effects of the war."

LORDSHIP WANTS JOB

Britain has a peer and a peeress willing to work for someone without pay. This advertisement appeared in the personal column of a London newspaper: "Middle-aged Peer and Peeress, energetic, capable, former with military and business experience. Good linguist—French and German—latter good organizer and general nursing experience—London and military. Desire suitable employment together with accommodation. No salary."

Currier Home Rocked by Blast

An explosion, apparently from a black powder bomb, did this damage to the Detroit home of P. J. Currier, whose lumber company recently was refused a contract to build a defense housing project. A police official (extreme left) and Currier's son, Vincent, examine the wreckage.

Postwar Upset in U.S. Economics

Los Angeles, Dec. 5 (AP)—Migrations of millions of Americans because of the defense emergency have created this nation's greatest social problem. And they will create a postwar whirlpool of unemployment more dangerous to our economy than any military attack, speakers from opposite coasts agreed today.

Rep. John H. Tolan (D., Calif.) warned the California department of employment that state and federal agencies would have to meet an anticipated postwar unemployment crisis, then charged:

"There are no big men in Congress. They spend billions of dollars to save the world but do not have the brains or heart to take care of our own people."

He is a member of a congressional committee investigating defense migration.

Jay A. Urice of New York, executive secretary of the national board of the Y. M. C. A. and an executive committeeman of the United Service Organizations, asserted in an interview:

"Our western migrations in the pioneering days, or the dust bowl migrations, cannot touch it (defense migration) for importance in consequences to the country."

Shows Increase

The first 10 days of the 1941 Christmas Seal Campaign finds results running ahead of those of last year according to H. Van Wyck Darrow, treasurer of the Ulster County Committee on Tuberculosis and Public Health.

The campaign as a whole cannot be judged by the first 10 days' results, Mr. Darrow explained, but the watchful committee is always eager to at least match the previous year's results.

"National health is a vital part of national defense," according to Dr. Thomas Parran, Surgeon General of the United States Public Health Service, Mr. Darrow said.

Christmas Seal Committees in all parts of the country feel that they must exert greater effort this year to insure the success of this drive for anti-tuberculosis funds.

"There is no better time than the present to urge America to guard her health against the ever-present menace of tuberculosis."

Two Cars Collide
In Pea Soup FogJames Galutch of Glasco
Is Hurt in Crash

In what is characterized by the officers as a pea soup fog, with visibility practically zero, cars driven by LeRoy Legg of Saugerties and George Harrington of 150-11 33rd avenue, Flushing, L. I., were in collision on 9-W about 5:30 o'clock Thursday evening.

The accident took place just south of the entrance to Glenrie Lake Park.

James Galutch of Glasco, who was riding with Legg toward Saugerties, having been picked up by Legg on Albany avenue, received injuries to the head and was cut and bruised. He was taken to the Benedictine Hospital, where his condition this morning was reported fairly good.

The Harrington car, which was being driven south, was badly damaged in front and along the entire left side as it was sideswiped by the other car. Legg's car was damaged about the left front wheel, axle and fenders. He told the officers that he was confused by lights of the approaching car and before he was aware of it was over in the third lane of the was far over on his left.

Sheriff Molyneux, with Deputies Vredenburg, McCullough and Segelken made the investigation and directed traffic, which they found a difficult matter because of the dense fog. They reported several near escapes from personal injury from cars which were being driven along the road at speeds which were not justified by the fog condition maintaining at the time.

Agudas Achim Services

Late Friday night services will be held in Congregation Agudas Achim this evening at 7:45 o'clock.

The service will consist of congregational singing, responsive reading and a sermon by the rabbi. Refreshments will be served by the ladies' group after the services Saturday morning. Services begin at 8:30 o'clock. The rabbi will preach on the weekly portion of the Bible, The Talmud Class, conducted by Rabbi Gershuny, will meet at 2:45 o'clock.

The annual "Chevrah Kadishah" supper will take place Sunday evening, December 7, at 6 o'clock. Rabbi Gershuny will speak on the theme: "Torah—True Judaism and Americanism."

Rabbi Bernard Gershuny will broadcast services on Tuesday evening, December 9, at 6:45 o'clock over Station WKNY. The topic of the rabbi's sermon will be "Have We Not All One Father? Hath Not One God Created All of Us?"

Discovery Also Tells Why
Things Went Haywire
Back in 1852 for Many Persons

Philadelphia, Dec. 5 (AP)—Three sacks of mail, apparently hidden 89 years ago by a robber, today held high hopes for philatelists and historians—and the reason why love affairs and business dealings inexplicably went awry in the fall of 1852.

Mr. and Mrs. James Heugh, young commercial artists, discovered the cache among attic eaves while renovating an old house they recently purchased in downtown Philadelphia.

Among the 100 pieces of mail was a copy of the New York Herald for November 2, 1852, Election Day. Postal inspectors believed this dated the robbery and local newspapers of that time tell of a series of mail thefts "between here and Baltimore."

All seals had been broken—the letters were not in envelopes but folded and sealed as was done then—and investigators were of the opinion the robber had hidden his loot after taking any cash found in the mail.

But the cancelled stamps he casually stuffed away may be worth a small fortune, a collector said. He pointed out that catalogs list a one-cent blue stamp current in those years at $2,000. Other issues in common usage then are quoted from $8 to $2,500.

The finders claimed the stamps, but postal officials have withheld a final decision on ownership of the mail.

His Kids Enjoyed His Roaring Truck—Until

Minneapolis, Dec. 5 (AP)—Fire trucks are fun to kids, with their roaring speed and exciting clangor, and they were especial fun for the four little Tyczynski girls. Their daddy was always perched atop one when it serenaded by their house from the fire station just a block away and they could wave to him. It was fun yesterday, too, when the roaring red monster sped by. The little girls, three to 12 years of age, danced excitedly and waved gaily, and Arthur Tyczynski, 50, waved proudly and happily back at his daughters.

Then, a block away, the truck rounded a corner. Something happened. Daddy lost his hold and plunged to the pavement. Badly hurt, said physicians at General Hospital. Fractured skull, broken collar bone.

Mamma Tyczynski, after a hurried trip to the hospital, returned home to her daughters. Anxiously the five waited beside the telephone for word about daddy.

It came five hours later. Daddy had died without regaining consciousness.

U.S. War Chieftains
Must Take Long
View and PrepareAfter All, Writer Declares, America Is in War Up to Necks; All Have Their Plans

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Wide World War Analyst)

The Chicago Tribune caused much discussion with its copyrighted report that a joint army-navy board has prepared a confidential recommendation which includes provision for an American expeditionary force of 5,000,000 to fight the Axis by July 1, 1943.

That report will stir divers emotions among the American public—but surprise shouldn't be one of them.

Surely there can be few people who don't recognize by this time that the United States is at war with the Axis. Differences of opinion exist regarding the merits of our position as a de facto belligerent (and with that controversy this column has no part), but there can be no argument regarding our status as a participant. True, thus far we haven't taken part to any great extent on the "shooting war," but this doesn't alter the fact that we are in the conflict up to our necks.

Since this is true, the logical corollary is that the government must be prepared to implement the commitment by action. This means that our army and navy chiefs must prepare plans, and they must do so before the event and not after it, unless we have been bereft of all reason.

As White House Secretary Stephen E. Early pointed out yesterday, it is the duty of the navy and the army, even in peace times, "to study and devise plans for all possible emergencies. Even the most improbable situations are studied and planned."

All Have Their Plans

Every major power in the world has fled away in its secret archives plans calculated to meet all sorts of hypothetical positions. It would be astonishing and most disconcerting to learn, for instance, that our fighting branches didn't have detailed plans for our conduct in event of war with Japan. And the Japanese, shrewd people that they are, naturally are equally prepared.

I'll even wager, despite the traditional talk about the "impossibility of war between America and England," that our war and navy departments know what they would do if the impossible happened. Our cousins across the big pond certainly have given thought to the same subject, although without any more anxiety than Uncle Sam has.

However, we aren't dealing with any such far-fetched hypothesis as that in the case in hand. We already are at war with the Axis. And as I have said in this column before, to my mind it's only a matter of time before the allies will call on us for aid in combat.

Most certainly if Hitler tries an invasion of Britain—and that remains a possibility—the British will ask us for naval aid unless they are able to crush the Nazi attempt at the start. Should things go badly for the allies in the Mediterranean theater, there would be a demand for our navy.

We don't need to rehash the dangers of the Japanese-American crisis.

But what about an American expeditionary land force—say the 5,000,000? Well, come the spring and the intensified fighting, the allies are going to need well-trained and well-equipped manpower. It would be a surprise if they don't turn to Uncle Sam for it.

The great call for man-power will come from the Middle East and the Russian theatre, as I view it. More and more it seems that this front will develop the decisive land engagements of the war. As remarked before, ultimately the allies will undertake an invasion of western Europe, but this can only come after the German resistance has been broken from other directions.

The British have a great army in the British Isles for defense, or for western continental invasion when the time is ripe. The Yankees will be wanted in eastern Europe and the Middle East as things look now.

Ahavath Israel Service

The regular late Friday evening service of Congregation Ahavath Israel will be held tonight at 8 o'clock. Dr. Nathan Jacobson, rabbi of the congregation, will discuss the theme, "Won't We Ever Learn?" An Oneg Shabbat will follow the service.

Saturday morning services begin at 8:30 o'clock, and the afternoon service at 4 o'clock. The religious school will meet Sunday morning at 10 o'clock and the Hebrew school daily at 4 p. m.

A regular meeting of the membership will take place Sunday evening at 8 o'clock. The Young People's League will meet Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock and the Junior Young People's League on Thursday evening at 8 o'clock. All interested in affiliating with these groups are requested to attend.

To increase rice production Japan will restrict the growing of tobacco.

FOOD TIPS FROM THE COOKBOOKLETS

TARTS, FANCY PASTRIES, CREAM PUFFS ALL DESCRIBED IN NEW PIE COOKBOOKLET

Those gorgeous little pastries you've always admired are really so easy to make if you have the proper directions that you don't have to admire them from afar. The artistic touch is easy to acquire—all you need are the ingredients and some simple recipes like those in the new Cookbooklet "250 Superb Pies and Pastries," ready now for readers of the Kingston Daily Freeman.

There's a big section on Tarts, Fancy Pastries, and Cream Puffs that describes in word and picture an enticing variety of these luscious gems. You can choose tarts, pastry rolls, Danish pastry, tamale cases, dumplings, cream horns, Napoleons, eclairs, turnovers and many other fascinating tid-bits.

An elegant creation to set before your guests at a special party is a mirror tray full of Cream Puff Swans. Here's how to make them:

Cream Puff Swans
One Recipe Cream Puffs—
1/2 cup shortening
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 cup boiling water
1 cup sifted flour
3 eggs, unbeaten
1 recipe Whipped Cream Topping or Vanilla Ice Cream

Add shortening and salt to boiling water and stir over medium heat until mixture boils. Lower heat, add flour all at once and stir vigorously until mixture leaves the sides of pan. Remove from heat and add 1 egg at a time, beating thoroughly after each addition. Shape 8 puffs on an ungreased cookie sheet using 1 tablespoon of paste for one puff. Bake in hot oven (450° F.) 20 minutes; reduce temperature to moderate (350° F.) and bake about 20 minutes longer. Remove from oven and place on rack to cool.

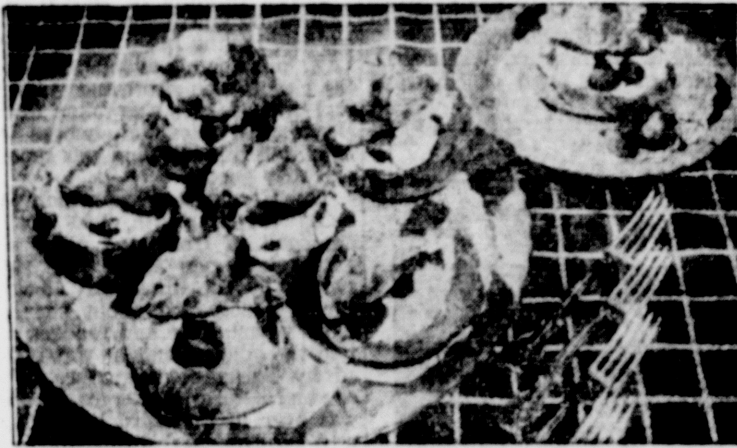

Place remaining cream puff mixture in pastry tube and force S-shaped pieces through large plain tip onto greased baking sheet to form swan necks. Force out small, pointed pieces for tails. Cut of 1/3 of top of cream puff and fill with cream. Cut top into halves and press into filling on each side to represent wings. Insert neck and tail into filling. An excellent accompaniment for cocktails or salads are these easy-to-make

Lemon Cheese Sticks
3 cups sifted flour
1 teaspoon salt
1 cup shortening
1 egg, slightly beaten
3 tablespoons lemon juice
1/2 cup water
1 1/2 cups grated American Cheese

Sift flour and salt together. Cut in shortening with 2 knives or a pastry blender. Add egg combined with lemon juice, then just enough ice water to bind dough together. Roll dough 1/4 inch thick, sprinkle half with grated cheese. Fold and pat edges together, fold again and roll to 1/4 or 1/2 inch wide. Bake in hot oven (450° F.) until lightly browned, about 10 minutes.

This is the fifth booklet in the Kingston Daily Freeman's series of 20 Cookbooklets being released one each week. Already available are booklets on snacks, leftovers, cakes, poultry and each of these may still be claimed.

To claim each one, simply present one coupon from page 2 of the Kingston Daily Freeman with 13¢ at the nearest distributor listed upon the coupon or if you prefer, remit 13¢ (13¢ plus 3¢ for postage) with mail order coupon from page 2 of The Freeman to The Kingston Daily Freeman, Cookbooklet Dept., Freeman Square, Kingston, N. Y.

Cream Puffs are always a treat, but they're an extra special treat when you add fruit to the filling, according to the Pies and Pastries booklet, now available to our readers.

Big Task Ended By Map Maker

Travels 300,000 Miles to Sketch Topographical
And Climatic Works.

NEW YORK.—Two years of war have engendered, among other things, a great public interest in geography as manifested by the various map changes which have been made under military pressure. To Prof. John Hastings of the City College economics department, however, this transient interest must seem like the proverbial drop of water in the ocean when compared to the 20 years of his own map-making activity.

Dr. Hastings, who teaches economic and anthropological geography at the college, has made more than 1,500 topographical and climatic maps and has traveled 300,000 miles through every continent to make his own measurements and observations. If all his maps were tacked together they would encompass an area of 2,500 square feet. He has also perfected his own method of mixing paints and has copyrighted a new method of depicting climate.

Completes Long Task.

In the quiet of his classroom, the stocky, gray-haired professor recently put the finishing touches on a map of Montana. This was not just another map, he said, indicating with a sweep of his arm the innumerable charts which hung on the wall or lay in neatly stacked rolls in a corner of the room.

This was the forty-eighth state map, on a scale of one inch to eight miles, and the completion of a project which had caused him to cross the continent 14 times. He wished, the professor said, he had enough wall space to enable him to display all the state maps together but that would entail the use of 900 square feet. The college, he pointed out, could not spare the space so he guessed he'd have to continue showing the states individually.

Dr. Hastings came to City College in 1924 after having studied at the Universities of Berlin, Utrecht, Manchester, Munich, Geneva, Michigan and Jena. He received his doctorate in geography from the latter institution in 1909.

Found Maps Inadequate.

When he began to teach geography at City College, he found that all available maps were inadequate. This led to his prodigious work in making his own maps.

He recalled that he had only 30 students in his first class. Now, he said proudly, over 200 students register for it every semester.

That the students regard Professor Hastings very highly has been shown by the results of the annual poll at the school. For 10 consecutive years he has been voted the "Most Brilliant and Least Appreciated" teacher in the college and his wit and amazing memory have become legendary. One graduate, asked what benefits he had received from his college education, answered simply, "Hastings."

'Mr. Churchill' Too Busy To Clean Prisoners' Camp

JERUSALEM.—Axis prisoners of war camped somewhere in Palestine, thought they could taunt guards by dubbing the orderly who cleaned their quarters "Mr. Churchill."

The officer in charge bided his time until the next routine camp inspection, when the prisoners, replying to questions, said their quarters were better than they had received in active service and the clothing provided was ample, but they complained that their quarters "haven't been cleaned for a fortnight."

"I am really sorry," replied the officer, "but you are probably aware that Mr. Churchill is very busy fighting a war on four continents to crush Hitler and his regime. You will have to clean up around here without his help."

Folk Dancing Reported To Be on the Way Back

BOSTON.—Troubles are over for the wallflower and stag-lines are on the wane.

This information comes from Miss Anne Cameron, dance instructor and assistant professor of physical education at Boston university's Sargent college of physical education, who says that folk-dancing is staging a comeback and you don't have to be a Fred Astaire to do it.

"Because social dancing is an individual activity it does not answer the sociological need for group participation," she says. "The spirit of nationalism in these troubled times makes the demand for group activity even more insistent. A swing-back to folk-dancing, prominent since primitive man, is the natural outcome."

Housing Problem Solved, Truck Moves Tiny Home

LACONIA, N. H.—William Rising is never at loss to find a home, scarce as rents are.

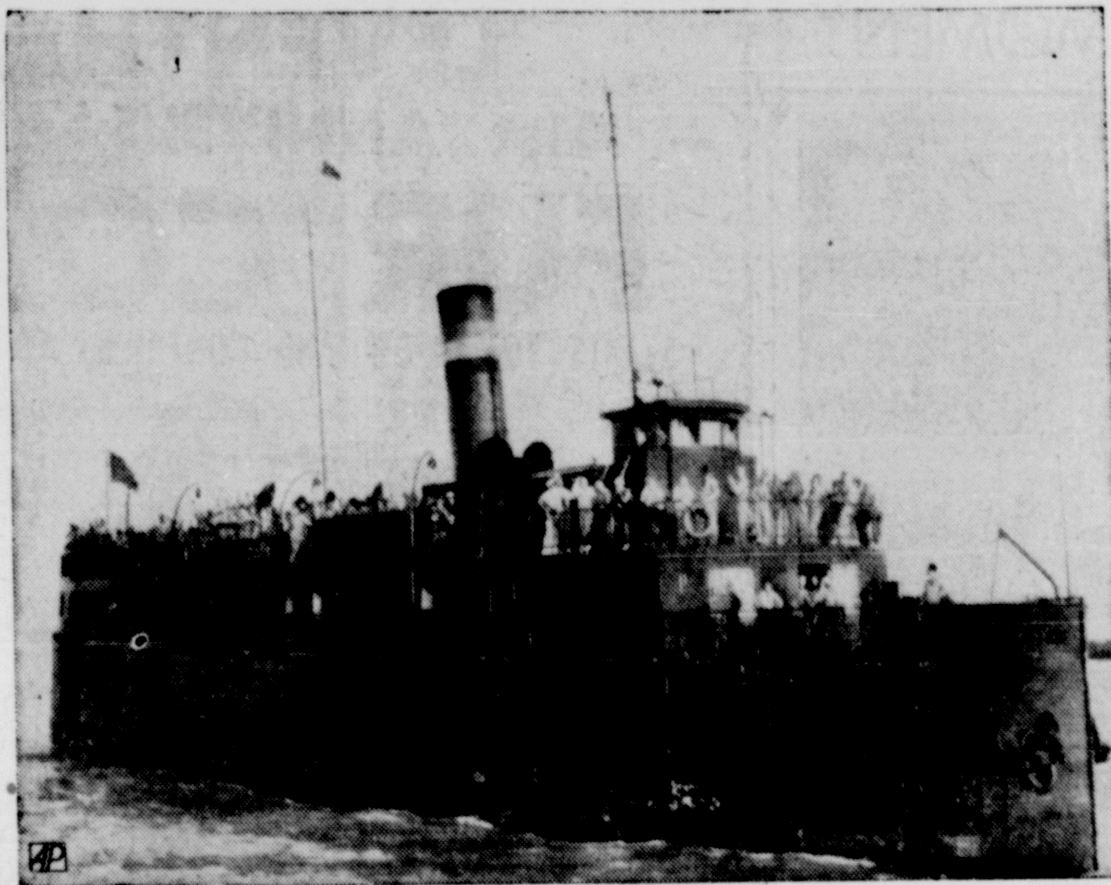

Rising was working in Tilton, 11 miles from here, when he got a new job. He summoned a truckman, hoisted his tiny white house aboard, rented a lot in Laconia and moved in.

Rising's house is smaller than the usual wayside cabin and once was used as a wayside store.

Successor in Interest

Samuel D. Affron of 19 Teller avenue, Beacon, has filed a certificate with the county clerk stating that as successor in interest to Samuel D. Affron and David Lofgren, he is conducting a business at Highland, Ulster county, under the name of Affron Pheasant Farm.

Disbarment Asked

A special grand jury in New York handed up a presentment to justices of the appellate division of the state supreme court calling for the disbarment of Alfred E. Smith, Jr., son of the former New York governor, on 11 specific charges of malpractice. Young Smith is shown last August 5 just before he went to Fort Dix, N. J., for army service.

Architects to Dine

The Mid-Hudson Valley Architectural Association will hold a dinner meeting at the Governor Clinton Hotel Thursday night, December 11 at 7 o'clock. The speaker, said to be an interesting one, will be from the State Department of Education. He will speak of his experiences as an investigator for the department of violations of the law governing architects in this state.

Du Mond Is Named Farm Bureau Head To Replace Davis

Former President Headed Association Nine Years
Suggests Ulster Park
Man as Successor

At the annual meeting of the Ulster County Farm and Home Bureau and 4-H Club Association, held at the Farm Bureau office Thursday night, Chester C. DuMond of Ulster Park was elected president of the association. He succeeds Millard H. Davis of Kerhonkson, who has headed the association for nine years and who previous to its organization was for years president of the Farm Bureau. In a letter read at the meeting Mr. Davis asked to be relieved of the responsibility and suggested that Mr. DuMond, who is prominent in state and national federation affairs, be named to succeed him. Mr. Davis was elected honorary president of the association.

Other association officers elected were: Mrs. William Warren, Hurley, vice-president; Edwin W. Hathaway, secretary. The board of directors will name a treasurer at their January meeting. Mr. Hathaway is the present treasurer, a position he has held for many years.

Farm Bureau members of the association elected as directors for three years Willis Myers of Saugerties, John L. Schoonmaker of Accord and Walter Clarke of Milton. Mr. Clarke succeeds Mr. DuMond as a director.

Home Bureau members named as their directors for three years Mrs. Reed Wilkins of Walkill, Mrs. Carrie Adams of Mt. Marion and Mrs. C. L. Allen of Kingston. Members of the 4-H Club elected by the association, were: Mrs. William Warren, Mrs. Hugh Ferguson and Raymond V. O. DuBois. These also serve three years.

Interesting reports were made by Mrs. DeWitt G. Crowell for the Home Bureau and Elmer Fisher for the Farm Bureau, who were delegates to the recent meeting of the State Federations in Syracuse. General reports, stressing high light of activities of the past year of the three units of the Ulster County Association were made by their chairmen—DeWitt Crowell for the Farm Bureau, Mrs. H. M. Eppes for the Home Bureau and Pratt Boice for the 4-H Club.

Mrs. Eber Coy reported that the Home Bureau had a paid membership for the year of 400. The Farm Bureau membership was reported by DeWitt Crowell to be 700, which is 56 ahead of last year.

A resolution read by Fred Briehl of Walkill, who moved its adoption, was passed without discussion. The resolution referred to the world-wide war and the crisis in national affairs and pledged full cooperation of the farmers in production of food articles as necessary for national stability and defense; it also endorsed the foreign policy of the administration.

There was an attendance of 53 members of the association at the meeting.

Certificate Filed

Michael, Emil and Isador Buchholtz of Briggs street, near Ellenville, have filed a certificate with the county clerk stating they are conducting a hotel business in the town of Wawarsing under the name of Greenwood Inn as successors in interest to Michael Buchholtz who heretofore conducted the business under the same name.

Plans for air-conditioned office buildings in Hong Kong have been made.

ILLUSIONIST WINS, DIES

After regaining his place in the Magic Circle, David Devant, famous illusionist, died a helpless cripple in a Putney, England hospital, aged 73. Devant became world famous, but had to retire in 1920 through paralysis of the hands. Later he was asked to resign from the Magic Circle, the illusionists' organization, who said he had broken the rules by exposing some of his tricks in a book. Later they begged him to return, and he did so on condition that the 12 members would visit the hospital and entertain him.

The rabbit industry is booming since the demand for pelts used by hatters and furriers has increased.

PAN AMERICA FLAG URGED

A flag and a hymn for all the Americas is proposed by the film workers of Monterey, Mexico. The National Cinematographic Workers Union of the big industrial city has presented the plan to the Mexican Senate, citing the legislature's approval of the interparliamentary plan for American countries. The proposal is to create a flag representing the 21 Pan American countries and to have a hymn composed for them. The flag and the hymn, the film workers contend, would add greatly to hemisphere solidarity.

CHURCHYARD INN PAYS

Only public-house in England that stands in a churchyard, the "Mug House" at Claines, near Worcester, is paying despite the war. It is more than 600 years old. Tombstones are close to the front door, and the church is only 30 feet away. Customers must approach by the churchyard path, for there is no other way. Once vestry meetings were held in the inn, the original purpose of which was to provide refreshment for the "Lords and Ladies" after church service next door.

Training Is Free
For Defense Jobs

Trained Workers Badly Needed

Every day the whistle blows for hundreds of new workers in defense—workers of many types. Do you wonder where so many skilled workers come from, and how you could be one?

Many are fresh from the free courses given by the government through the schools—brief courses you could take, too, in metal work, carpentry, radio service, truck repair, and other needed defense skills.

The government not only teaches inexperienced people but in short "refresher" courses re-trains men who have not worked at their trades for some time.

To high-school graduates at least 18, with 3 years of English 2 of mathematics and 1 of physics or chemistry, the government offers a longer, special course in engineering.

And even women are finding jobs in defense. Many assemble mechanical parts; others do light machine operations.

There are exciting job opportunities in every section of the United States. Our 32-page booklet tells where and what they are, how to get free training in defense skills, engineering, aviation, or as a ship's officer. Lists places to register for work.

Send 10c in coin for your copy of "Getting a Defense Job" to The Kingston Daily Freeman, Home Service, 635 Sixth Ave., New York, N. Y. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, and the name of booklet.

Beauties Boom Business

Business has been booming out at Sandy Silverman's East side parking lot in Cleveland, since he hired two pretty high school girl graduates as attendants and dressed them in natty yellow blouses and blue slacks.

It's part of the now familiar story of "men for defense" and women taking over their jobs. Silverman lost his two men attendants when one took a job in a defense factory and the other enrolled in a defense training course.

The girl attendants are red-haired Redda Turkin, 19, and Sylvia Newman, 19-year-old brunette. "No," said Silverman, "you needn't worry about dented fenders with these girls on the job."

Air express shipments in Argentina more than doubled in the last year.

MODES of the MOMENT

Leisurely grace is attained in a sheer silk robe. Softly gathered at waist and bodice, its long flowing sleeves are snugged at the wrist to avoid pouring coffee up the sleeves. The whole is held together by bands of Alencon lace, and finely tucked. The gown beneath is of white satin with wide lace banding. Nice for a bride, and priced within the budget at around $20.

Junior Auxiliary Elects Officers for Year

JANE RAFFERTY

MARGARET FARRELL

ANN NETTER

ROSE ABERNETHY

The Junior Auxiliary of the Benedictine Hospital held its first meeting of the year last week at the nurses' home at the hospital. Miss Cecilia Netter, president of the organization opened the meeting and addressed its members. The organization first held election of officers for the coming year. Miss Jane Rafferty was elected president; Miss Margaret Farrell, vice-president; Miss Ann Netter, secretary; and Miss Rose Abernethy, treasurer. Plans were considered for the annual tea dance which will be held January 1, 1942. Various committees were appointed to make this dance a success. President, Miss Jane Rafferty, appointed some of the younger members of the club to assist in serving tea for the meeting of the Senior Auxiliary Wednesday, December 3. They are the Misses Rosemary Netter, Mary Saddlemyre, Helen Larkin, Margaret Whelan, Mary Phelan, and Marie Flynn. Sister Benecie attended this meeting and wished the officers much success for the coming year.

High School Speaker

PROF. HARRY J. HELTMAN
Distinct, pleasant speech is essential to a permanently satisfactory life, Prof. Harry J. Heltman, chairman of the School of Speech and Dramatic Art at Syracuse University, told Kingston High School students in an assembly today.

Stressing the need for acquiring good speaking habits during youth, Prof. Heltman advised students that "speech is 'what it takes' to get a job, to provide a good personality, and to have a satisfactory everyday existence among the people with whom you have to live." Heading the divisions for rating the applicant in an interview are voice and speech, he pointed out. Other qualities listed include ability to present ideas, emotional stability, self-confidence, friendliness, all of which depend on speech habits. The ability to enter a discussion helps to solve many problems both between nations and individuals.

Prof. Heltman is a graduate of Syracuse University and has been a member of the faculty since 1916. He was appointed chairman of its School of Speech and Dramatic art in 1939. He received his master of arts degree from American University and is a fellow of the American Speech Correction Association and of the National Association of Teachers of Speech.

Christmas Message Brought To D. A. R.

The Rev. H. Victor Kane, pastor of the First Baptist Church, spoke on the theme, "Discovering Christmas," yesterday afternoon at the regular monthly meeting of the Wiltwyck Chapter, D.A.R., held at the chapter house. The Rev. Mr. Kane in his address said that people will only discover Christmas after they have established their own fundamental beliefs.

Today, he said, people have "plenty of celebration without much consecration, a vast amount of revelry but little revelation of what Christmas means." He spoke of the conditions in the war-torn lands where bells no longer peal out joyous greetings but are held in reserve to warn the people of attack. He also mentioned the item from the Holy Land where this year the shining of the superstar in Bethlehem has been forbidden.

The Rev. Mr. Kane also drew illustrations from personal experiences and those of Scrooge in discussing the meaning of Christmas. He said that Christmas does not stop with Santa Claus beliefs but people should learn that it is a cooperative event whose benefits must be shared by the whole world. His three ideals for Christmas are it should be progressive, inclusive and cooperative.

The group sang Christmas carols accompanied by Mrs. Walter T. Tremper and Mrs. Tremper played Paderewski's "Minuet in G" as a piano solo. The chapter welcomed Mrs. J. Duncan Lawrence, who was chaplain until she moved from Kingston. She has now returned to make her home here.

Contributions to the Tuberculosis Christmas Seal Fund, the Salvation Army, the Mayor's Christmas Cheer Fund and the Castle Point Welfare Christmas Cheer Fund for World War veterans confined in hospitals were voted by the chapter. About the Ellis Island Christmas tree under the direction of Mrs. R. H. D. Boerker, were grouped a variety of gifts. Mrs. Boerker reported for the work of the Junior group, announcing its dinner dance December 29 at the Governor Clinton Hotel and its annual card party January 28. Mrs. Clarence L. Dumm thanked the committee who helped her to make such a success of the chapter's recent dessert bridge.

The regent, Mrs. Charles A. Terwilliger, announced that Miss Arlene Jacobson had been chosen by the faculty and senior class of Kingston High School as their Good Citizenship Pilgrim to compete with other high school delegates for the trip to Washington, D. C. Mrs. Harris C. Inglis, chapter Red Cross chairman, solicited the aid of the members with the surgical dressing work at the municipal building each week. Mrs. William Macgregor, Mills, chapter chairman of national defense, reported that the National Society is sponsoring an air raid shelter for England and is sending milk to the children of China. An invitation was read to the chapter to attend a reception Sunday, December 7, from 3 to 5 p. m., at the Ulster County Tuberculosis Hospital in honor of its 10th anniversary.

Since the next regular meeting day would be New Year's, next month's meeting will be held January 8.

PROTEST SOMETIMES CAN BE A KINDNESS

Of all the unpleasant incidents that my readers have told me, I really can't remember any that reveals such revolting table manners as the incident described in a letter from a woman who asks what I would have done had I been in her place. Her letter says: "I was eating in a cafeteria, seated alone at a small table. At a table within reaching distance of mine sat four women. After they had finished their main course, the woman at that table who sat nearest to me, stacked all of the used plates and dishes, leaned over and piled them all on my table in front of me. Seeing their used plates smeared with left-over particles of food and congealed gravy literally took my appetite away."

"I left my own lunch no more than half eaten, because I did not know what to do about it. And yet I have wondered since, if she had asked me, 'Do you mind?' before putting the dishes down, whether I would have had the unkindness to have told her truthfully 'Yes I do.'"

My first thought on reading this, was that what my reader did was the only answer. But on second thought I feel that making no protest against behavior such as this, is actually not kindness to one who is possibly quite ignorant of her offense. The point I would make is that if others are as unresponsive as you, she will only go on offending every decent person who is unfortunate enough to come into contact with her. In the end she will be ostracized by the very people by whom she probably would wish most to be liked, and never know why she is shunned.

I agree it would have been disagreeable and (under usual circumstances) not good manners to have said severely, "Will you kindly remove these dishes, at once!" But it might have impressed her and her companions with the fact that her behavior was not pleasing. If a few others would do the same, they might learn better in time. If she hadn't taken them back, you would probably have had to stand to attract the attention of the attendant—possibly of the manager to have them taken away. After writing all this I confess that I, probably like you, should have wanted no more lunch and should have left them in tranquil ignorance of their porcine methods. Anyway, writing this may encourage others to protest or—better still—awaken the insensible to the need of greater sensibility.

How to Write to a Ph.D.

Dear Mrs. Post: Last summer I took summer work at a college and one of our teachers was a Miss Kerr, Ph.D. Now that I want to write her, shall I address my letter to Dr. Susan Kerr or Miss Susan Kerr? And if the latter, shall I add the degree to her name?

Answer: Address her as Dr. Susan Kerr. It is always proper for others to use the title for her even though in best taste the holder of it does not herself use it, unless her letter or manuscript is concerned with the subject in which she holds her degree—in which case she would add Ph.D. to her name.

Mrs. Post is sorry she can no longer answer personal letters. She is glad, however, to have many printed slips on a variety of subjects to offer to her readers. Today's slip is "Buffet Dinners, Lunches and Suppers." Be sure to send a three-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Mrs. Post, in care of The Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 150, Times Square Station, New York, N. Y. Leaflets cannot be mailed unless self-addressed envelope bears correct amount of postage.

Interest in Dog Is Thought Cause Of Ballo Murder

chiefly devoted to getting an idea of measurements about the property where the argument took place, as to who owned the dog and also in regard to whether Trapanio had been asked to fix a broken plow which Giordona had broken while at work earlier in the day at the farm.

Giordona said he had come to Tucker's Corners from Troy but a few weeks before the shooting. He met Joseph Ballo at a friend's house in Troy and mentioned he was to buy a farm, Ballo, who was also known by Mrs. Giordona in Troy, had told him he knew of a farm at Tucker's Corners near one owned by his brother and Ballo, Mr. Giordona, and the witness came to Ulster county and bought the farm. Ballo had no money but he was to get some from Italy where his wife lived, and was to become a partner when he paid the money. Giordona said he had intended to wait a couple of months for the Ballo money and if it did not come he was going to "throw him out" and the partnership was to be off.

When they came to Ulster county they went to the home of Salvatore Trapanio. The witness said his wife and Trapanio's wife were sisters.

Mr. Carlinio asked the witness regarding payment of a commission to Trapanio or Joseph Ballo for selling the property but Giordona said he knew nothing of any commission to be paid.

During the morning Mr. Carlinio asked the witness regarding conversation at the farm a day or two ago and the witness said he never had seen Mr. Carlinio before at the place. Later on he said he had seen both Carlinio and his son at the place and had given them a glass of cider and told them that his friend, Mr. Tabalacci was now a partner in the farm.

Taken Through Interpreter

The testimony was taken through interpreter, Frank Campochiaro, local attorney. The evidence came slowly since each question had to be repeated.

The witness said Ballo lived in the same house but occupied quarters upstairs while the Giordona family lived downstairs. He never had been upstairs and did not know what Ballo did or had in his room. Giordona said he had a shotgun at Troy and Ballo knew it. The gun had been brought to Ulster county but he never had a revolver. The witness said he never had gone hunting with Ballo and it was then that the hunting dog ownership was disclosed.

Giordona said that Ballo was to get money from Italy to pay his interest in the farm, "if he did not get the money he was not in the farm and not in the dog" was his way of explaining the mythical joint ownership. However, Ballo was considered a partner in the place in that he did not pay any board.

The witness said he and Ballo had had a talk with Trapanio the morning of the shooting and that Mrs. Giordona had been on the porch nearby at the time. She came down when the argument started.

Ballo Objected

Giordona said Ballo had objected to Trapanio taking the dog without his permission and said that after that day his permission would be necessary before the dog could be taken.

The broken plow figured in the affair at considerable length. Giordona said that he had started to plow about 6 o'clock on the morning of the shooting and had broken the plow. He denied that the plow had broken prior to that time and that the night before the shooting he had gone over the Trapanio's place to ask Trapanio to fix it. He also said he did not recall going to the Trapanio place two nights before the shooting with Joseph Ballo and of the borrowing of a box of shotgun shells from Trapanio. He said he did not borrow shells and did not recall Ballo taking shells from the Trapanio home.

Giordona said he had not spoken to Trapanio about the broken plow before, but had gone over to the Trapanio place after the argument to talk with Trapanio about the plow but did not find Trapanio home. He said he did not tell Trapanio about the broken plow and did not know how Trapanio found out the plow was broken. When he failed to locate Trapanio he started home and stopped to talk with a friend when he heard the shot and went home. The witness said it was about 20 minutes after the argument at the place that he went over to the Trapanio place to ask Trapanio to fix the plow and then Trapanio was not at home.

There was considerable time taken up in fixing the distance of the house from the spot where the argument took place that morning and as to whether Mrs. Giordona was on the porch at the time or in the house. The witness maintained she was on the porch, having come out when he did as the argument started over the dog.

During the morning there were numerous objections entered by counsel. Mr. Carlinio maintained that many of the points which seemed immaterial now would be connected up later and used to impeach the picture of the tragedy which took place 19 years ago and for which Salvatore Trapanio was brought back from California to face the murder, second degree, charge.

The nineteen years which have passed since Joseph Ballo was shot to death at Tucker's Corners in the town of Plattekill have dimmed the recollections of those who discovered the body and witness the death of the farmer from gun-shot wounds. This dimming of memory over nearly a fifth of a century has placed a difficult task upon the prosecution, represented by District Attorney N. LeVan Haver and Assistant Frederick H. Stang, and was clearly demonstrated Wednesday afternoon when the witness was opened and the first five witnesses sworn.

Practically all of the witnesses were not clear or definite as to exact circumstances and many of the most important witnesses have died. Among the latter are William H. Kolts, who was sheriff at the time, Under Sheriff Tunis Hallenbeck, physicians who performed the autopsy and the coroner who acted at the time. However, the prosecution has Salvatore Giordona on whose farm the shooting took place and who overheard a quarrel some hours before the death of the dead man and the defendant, Salvatore Trapanio, as well as Josephine Bonacorso Giordona, who was nearby and heard the shot fired, and who the prosecution contend, turned in time to see Trapanio, smoking gun in hand, disappear over the hill after the shooting.

With the jury completed just before noon recess Wednesday, the case was opened at 2 o'clock by District Attorney Haver, who outlined what the people expect to prove. Even in the opening there were indications of a hard fought legal battle between the prosecution and Alonzo Carlinio, who appears for the defendant.

In opening, Mr. Haver said he would show during the trial that Joseph Ballo had resided at Tucker's Corners on November 10, 1922, with Mr. and Mrs. Salvatore Giordona and that they jointly operated the farm. About a mile or a mile and a half away lived Trapanio on his farm.

Early on November 10, he said he would show that Trapanio came to the farm where Ballo lived and there was an argument over a dog. It was charged that Trapanio had borrowed the dog without permission of the owner and that when the dog was returned Ballo told Trapanio not to take the dog again without permission and that Trapanio replied that he would take it if he desired.

Urged Men to Stop

At that time the argument grew heated and Mrs. Giordona is alleged to have placed her hand on Ballo's shoulder and told the two men to quit the argument and for Trapanio to go home which allegedly did. Salvatore Giordona who was nearby also is claimed to have heard the argument.

After the incident Ballo went out in the field near the road across from the house and started to cut brush. Mrs. Giordona was sent back to the house to get kerosene to start a fire to burn the brush. She allegedly returned with the oil and Ballo was bending over with his back in the direction from which a shot was fired. Mrs. Giordona heard the shot fired, saw Ballo fall and looked to see Trapanio with the gun. It is alleged that Trapanio in reply to some statement of Mrs. Giordona told her to "shut up" or he would shoot her, too, and then he disappeared over the hill with the gun.

Mr. Haver said that during the examination of prospective jurors it had been indicated that the defense would be self-defense and he pointed out to the jury that Ballo was shot in the back.

Haver said he would show that Ballo never knew that Trapanio was near him and never knew who shot him, that he died where he was shot and that people came to the scene and moved the body to the shade of a tree and it was before a coroner, now deceased, arrived. Because of confusion and the lack of speedy transportation to the back-woods community it was hours before officials arrived. The shooting took place near noon and it was dusk when the coroner arrived and an investigation was begun. During this time what took place was confused and he said it would be difficult to procure exact testimony because this and the 19 years which have elapsed and dimmed the memory of those who were early at the scene.

The prosecution stated it would be shown that Frank Ballo, brother of the dead man, who came after the shooting, would testify that he saw the body and that the shot had been in the back and that it was not until the undertaker moved the body that it was discovered that Ballo's back had been shot away. Mr. Haver said he would produce people present at the autopsy who could testify that the shot took effect in the back, despite the fact that the coroner and many of the officials were dead now. He said he would show that the location of the shot would clearly indicate that it was not self defense but that Ballo never knew who had fired the shot.

When Frank Ballo was called as the first witness, Mr. Carlinio, for the defense, asked that all witnesses be excluded from the courtroom during the giving of testimony. Mr. Haver at first objected but agreed that if both the witnesses for The People and the defense as well were excluded he would agree. Judge Conway directed that all witnesses be excluded and Mr. Carlinio said if any of his witnesses did remain in the courtroom he would agree not to call them.

During the opening of the case by Mr. Haver there were objections by Mr. Carlinio when Mr. Haver said he would give the jury his statement on the law regarding self defense. The objection of Mr. Carlinio was sustained by Judge Conway and the law will be given to the jury by the court at the close of the case.

Frank Ballo Is Heard

Frank Ballo, brother of the dead man, was the first witness called. He said he lived at 1784 West Fifth street, Brooklyn. He gave the date of his brother's death as November 10, 1922. He said he lived on another farm and operated a store about 2 1/2 miles from the shooting. He referred to the farm where the shooting took place as "the murder place" and this was stricken out by the court on motion of Mr. Carlinio.

He said it was about noon when someone came and told him of the shooting. Mr. Ballo talked at great length and anticipated questions several times and had to be waved by the court to answer the questions asked without elaborating or making comment or attempting to explain his answers. He said it was noon because he had secured a man to explode a blast in a well and the man had promised to come during the noon hour when he was not working. Just as the dynamite was exploded the man told him of the shooting. He and several others went to the scene by car. He could not recall who went or who drove the car but he said he arrived in a half hour or so and found his brother on the ground under a tree and several people were there. He did not know who they were. His brother's face was cold and there was no pulse. The body lay on its back and he did not see blood on the chest but about 5 o'clock when the coroner came he saw blood on the back and there was a hole in the clothing about the back where shots had entered.

So far as he knew his brother did not own a gun. On cross examination the witness said his brother had been born in 1875. He denied giving facts to the coroner in regard to his brother's age at the time. He said he conducted a store at Tucker's Corners and had known the Giordona family about a couple of months.

A year or so before Joseph had lived with him but when the witness left Brooklyn and came to the country Joseph did not come with him. About two months prior to the shooting, Joseph had come to the country and lived on the farm with the Giordona family. He said he had not known that his brother was a partner owner. He first met the Giordona family when they came to the country and bought the property.

He told of arriving at the scene and of finding the body in the field about 40 feet from the road across from the house and some 100 or 150 feet from the house. He saw no police when he arrived and said he had not seen Sergeant James J. Cunningham at the scene that day.

Ballo said he did not know the defendant except by sight but had seen him in his store a few times. It was also brought out that the witness had previously been booked on a federal charge of counterfeiting.

Sergeant James J. Cunningham was called and said that doctors who had performed the autopsy were dead. He said he had not visited the scene of the shooting on the day it took place and told of several Troopers with Corporal Lounsbury making a search for the man who did the shooting. This search was continued for several days and men sent from Troop C barracks assisted.

Sergeant Cunningham said that at the autopsy he had observed that Ballo was shot in the back. George R. Sutton, undertaker, was called but was unable to recall many details. He said he did not recall the type of shot which had been found in the body.

Chris Tuthill, who now operates the undertaking parlors at Marlborough where the autopsy took place, said he was 12 years old at the time of the shooting but had been present at the autopsy. This brought objections from defense on the grounds the man had been too young at the time to understand the action taken then but Judge Conway said the witness could tell what he had seen. At the time of the autopsy Tuthill's grandfather operated the business. He told of removal of the shot from the body.

Next came Salvatore Giordona. He said Trapanio had married his wife's sister. He said he had seen Trapanio talking to Joseph Ballo on the day of the shooting at the farm and had gone over to see Trapanio at his place but found Trapanio not home. On the way home he stopped at a neighbor's to talk. This was Tony Albano. He was talking to Albano when he heard a shot and went back home to discover Joseph Ballo lying dead on the ground.

Reservation of cross examination of Giordona was reserved until today.

ington-Tokyo negotiations might be imminent.

The broadcast said the cabinet planned to "complete the elaborate and complicated mechanism which will be set in motion by the service chiefs if war should come to the Pacific"—including defense against a possible blockade of Australia.

Repatriation of Japanese nationals from Singapore, British North Borneo, the United States, Panama and elsewhere gained pace in the heightening tension.

Perhaps significantly, Emperor Hirohito paid an unusual visit to Imperial army headquarters, where he received in audience General Gen Sugiyama, chief of the Japanese general staff.

Closely watching developments in which Britain's Far East fleet may play an important role, A. V. Alexander, first lord of the British admiralty, made this comment on the situation:

"I had hoped that wiser counsels in Japan would prevail over those who appear to be leading her people into a new war of aggression. The threat has not abated and aggression may be imminent."

Last hopes of an acceptable Japanese reply virtually were quashed by the authorities here. Japanese news agency Domei, which forecast a rejection of Hull's note and declared flatly that "Japan cannot accept" the Hull formula for settling the explosive Far East crisis.

British Send Ultimatum

Amid this darkening of the Pacific situation, Britain disclosed that she had sent virtual ultimatums to three nations fighting alongside Germany against Russia—Finland, Hungary and Rumania—in "a final effort to stabilize relations" and had given them until midnight tonight to answer.

"If no reply is received by them, a new phase of the situation will be reached," a British spokesman said.

The British government, he said, would then take "such measures as are called for by this new phase"—possibly a declaration of war against the three countries, although the spokesman said that if no replies were received by midnight it did not mean that Britain automatically would be at war with the trio.

Washington was frankly pessimistic about the outcome of the talks between Japan's two envoys and Secretary Hull.

New York, Dec. 5 (AP)—Dearth of bullish news brought a downward drift in today's stock market although resulting in no particular weakness.

Leaders began to stumble at the start and dealings were fast for a while. The pace slowed later and initial declines running to a point or so were reduced and scattered plus signs were seen near the final hour. Transfers were at the rate of about 1,000,000 shares. Tax selling again helped lift the turnover.

Bonds and commodities were spotty.

Among backward shares were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Santa Fe, N. Y. Central, General Motors, Chrysler, J. I. Case, Douglas Aircraft, American Smelting, Eastman Kodak, Sears Roebuck and Du Pont.

Up a shade at one time or another were Anaconda, Kennecott, Goodrich and Sperry.

PORT EWEN

Port Ewen, Dec. 5.—The Priscilla Society of the Methodist Church held its regular monthly business meeting and annual Christmas party Tuesday evening, December 2. At 6 o'clock a pot luck supper was served in the large room of the church house, the tables being set in the form of a cross. At each place was a corsage of holly and pine cones, the tables being decorated with candles and evergreens. After the supper the business meeting was held. Mr. Charles Zimmerman, president, presiding. The meeting was begun by the singing of Christmas carols which was followed by a devotional service conducted by Mrs. Samuel Tinney, who read the Christmas story according to St. Matthew. Responsive reading called "Gleams of the Nativity" and a Christmas prayer was read by all. The meeting was interrupted by the arrival of Santa Claus, who distributed gifts to all. After the business meeting, games were played, the festivities ending with the serving of apple pie à la mode. Those present were: Mesdames Charles Zimmerman, Jr., Percy Fairbrother, Raymond Howe, Amelia Rose, Gretel Clark, Harry Jump, Ralph Atkins,

Fruit Cakes for Christmas

By MRS. ALEXANDER GEORGE
AP Feature Service Writer

That pungent fragrance coming from the neighbor's kitchen tells us the season for making fruit cake is here again. Since the cakes improve upon standing for two or three weeks it's a good idea to start making them well before Christmas.

OLD ENGLISH CAKE, dark-colored and delightfully fruited and spicy will be ripe enough to use in three weeks or so. And it will keep moist well into next year.

Cream $1\frac{1}{2}$ cups butter, add 2 cups (well packed) dark brown sugar and beat until soft. Add 6 egg yolks, 1 tablespoon vanilla, $\frac{1}{2}$

LIGHT FRUIT CAKE

$2\frac{1}{2}$ cups sifted cake flour
1 teaspoon double-acting baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
 $2\frac{1}{3}$ cup finely cut candied cherries
 $2\frac{1}{3}$ cup finely cut candied pineapple
 $2\frac{1}{3}$ cup finely cut citron
1 $\frac{1}{3}$ cups chopped blanched almonds
 $\frac{1}{4}$ cup shredded coconut, finely cut
2 teaspoons grated lemon rind
 $\frac{1}{4}$ cup butter or other shortening
1 cup sugar
6 egg whites unbeaten
 $\frac{1}{4}$ cup lemon juice
 $\frac{1}{2}$ cup orange juice

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt, and sift together three times. Sift $\frac{1}{2}$ cup flour mixture over fruits, nuts, and coconut, mixing thoroughly. Add lemon rind to butter and cream well; add sugar gradually, creaming until light and fluffy. Add 3 egg whites, one at a time, beating thoroughly after each. Add flour, alternately with fruit juices and remaining egg whites, beating thoroughly after each addition. Add fruit mixture and mix well. Makes about 3 pounds mixture.

cup molasses, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, $\frac{1}{2}$ cup brandy or fruit juice, and $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon salt. Beat 2 minutes. Mix 2 cups seeded raisins with 1 cup each of dates and currants, $\frac{1}{2}$ cup each citron, candied orange, pineapple and lemon, $1\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoons cinnamon, $2\frac{1}{3}$ teaspoon each of cloves, nutmeg, mace, orange and lemon rinds. Sprinkle with $\frac{1}{2}$ cup flour and blend with fork.

Mix a teaspoon soda into $2\frac{1}{2}$ cups flour, add $2\frac{1}{3}$ cup sliced candied cherries and a cup pecans or almonds and add to butter mixture, fruits and spices. Stir thoroughly and lightly fold in 6 beaten egg whites. Pour into 2 loaf pans or one large-sized tube pan, lined with 3 thicknesses of heavy waxed papers. Cover with waxed paper held in place with rubber bands.

Set a shallow pan filled with water in bottom of the oven. Bake 3 hours in slow oven (275) for loaf and 4 hours for tube cakes. The water in the oven helps keep the cakes moist and shiny. Remove the top papers the last 20 minutes.

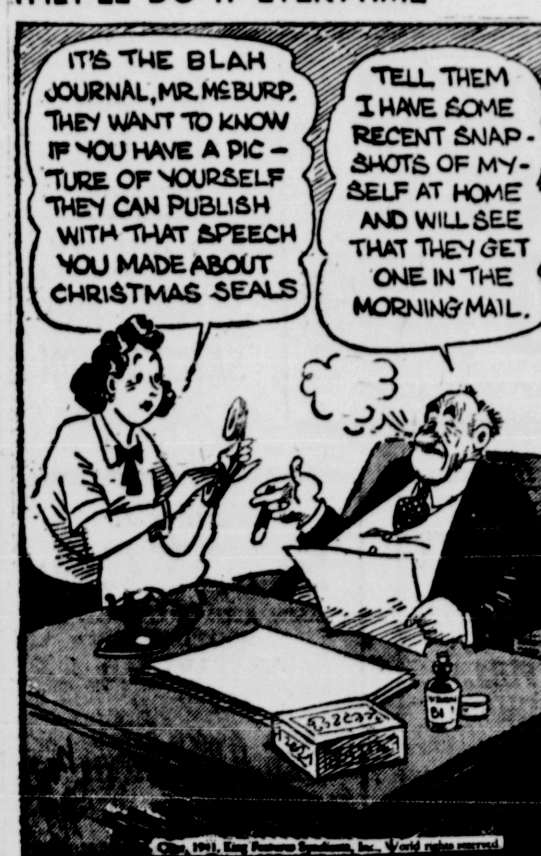

Let cakes cool in pans, then wrap cakes in several thicknesses of new waxed paper and store in a cool place (not refrigerator) in air-tight can or jar.

Each week, sprinkle cake with 3 tablespoons hot grapejuice or sherry and wrap in a cloth.

sprinkled generously with fruit juices or wine. Rewrap in waxed paper and return to air-tight container.

To decorate, 20 minutes before baking time is up, draw the cake to the edge of the oven and arrange a design from halved candied cherries, split dates, plump raisins, strips of candied orange peel and angelica. Brush over with sugar syrup for glaze. (Boil $1\frac{1}{3}$ cup sugar 3 minutes in $\frac{1}{2}$ cup water; apply on pastry brush.)

Joneses, Electrols, Schwenks Score City League Victories

Elstons and J.Y.A. Also Register Wins On Local Boards

D'Allesandro's 14 Tops All Individual Pointmakers; Woodstock Loses 39-7

In one of the main basketball games on the City League card last night Joneses scored a 46 to 30 triumph over Morans at the M. J. M. School. Eddie Bock took the scoring honors with 11 points. Britt of Morans scored 10.

Results in the other league contests were Electrols 27, Trojans 27; Schwenks 21, Hercules 15; Elstons 43, Unnamed Five 16; J. Y. A. 39, Woodstock 7.

The Joneses, one of the strongest units in the circuit, took a 21-11 lead after the first two periods of play and then settled down and kept its lead throughout the final two quarters.

In one of the closest games on the program the Electrols registered a 27-24 victory over the Trojans. Sapp helped himself to nine markers for the winners. Ferguson and Dobie collected six. DeGraff was the leading scorer, however, with 10. The Trojans led at the end of the first half by 10 to 9.

Schwenks maintained a slim edge all the way to win another close battle from Hercules by 21-15. O'Hara registered seven markers for the winning five. Pendergast tallied seven for Hercules. The Bakers took an 11-7 lead at the end of the first half.

Art D'Allesandro's six fields and two foul shots for a total of 14 points, gave Elstons enough margin to bowl over the Unnamed Five, 43-16. Lindhorst scored eight for Elstons. Lucas has six for the losing quintet.

A top-sided score resulted in the J. Y. A.'s conquest over Woodstock. J. Y. A. marched out to an 18 to 4 lead in the first half and then continued its barrage on the opponents' net in the final two sessions. Silverberg paced the winning quintet with 10. Rodino scored four of the Woodstock seven tallies.

Hits 640 Triple

BOBBY JONES

Bobby Jones, 18-year-old bowler with his father's Joneses club, registered a 640 triple Wednesday night in the Silver Bowling League at Emerick's Recreation alleys. Young Jones had scores of 216, 231 and 193. It is quite likely that Bobby is taking after his father, Ad Jones, who is another reputable bowler. Last night in the Major League Bob finished with a 538 triple with totals of 192, 177 and 189, which is pretty classy for any bowler, especially an 18-year-old youth.

Work Will Start On Skeet Field

Lake Katrine Gun Club Has Purchased Grounds

The Lake Katrine Rod and Gun Club held its weekly meeting at the club house Tuesday night. At that time it was decided to start progress on the erection of the skeet field Sunday.

The club has purchased the skeet and trap equipment from the Ulster County Gun Club and is preparing to hold shoots beginning in January. The new field is in Boies Lane.

All members are requested to meet Sunday morning at 9 o'clock to assist in laying out the field. When the field has been erected, skeet or trap shooting will be held.

The next meeting has been scheduled for the club house Tuesday, December 9, at 8 o'clock.

Varsity Meets Cornwall
at 9 P. M.; Crackers
Pitted Against Cairo
at 8 P. M.

Basketball returns to the Y. M. C. A. boards tonight when the "Y" Young Men's Club tangles with the Cornwall-on-Hudson Alumni at 9 o'clock. A preliminary between the "Y" Crackers and Cairo is scheduled for 8 o'clock.

In the preliminary contest the local roster will have Pat Bowers and Tommy O'Hara at forwards, George Silverberg at the center and "Zip" Geisler and Jack Kelse in the backcourt.

Judging from the many drills held by the Crackers, it is quite evident that this Young Men's Club junior varsity squad is strong. Cairo is coming here tonight with another good aggregation.

The feature contest at 9 o'clock also is expected to furnish plenty of cage thrills for the local fans. The varsity is made up of many former Kingston High School stars including Jess Shultis, Eddie Bock, "Chipe" Rhymer and Andy Dykes. Rhymer is the captain. Other ex-Maroon and White stars serving as utility men on the "Y" squad include Milt Dubin, Knute Beichert and Al Bruce.

The Cornwall club, holding victories over the West Point Detachment and Nyack, will have Bill Trainor and Tommy Smith at forwards, Joe Kinsler at center and Dunn and Wood at guards. Lent, Day, Tomasula and Clark will be ready for relief duty.

Dick Thomas, physical director at the Y. M. C. A., when interviewed about these games said, "We're only charging a small admission for these games as we merely want to clear expenses. I'm sure local cage fans will see plenty of good basketball at these games and I sincerely hope they give these two clubs support throughout the coming campaign."

This morning Bert Streeter, booking manager of the club, announced that four new teams have been signed as opponents on the heavy schedule. They include the West Point Medical Detachment, Highland Falls Ramblers, Peekskill Cardinals and the Roe-Jan All Stars of Hillsdale. The varsity club will have about a 40-game schedule.

Skiers to Stay Home
New York, Dec. 5 (AP)—The war in Europe threatens to keep eastern United States skiers closer to home this winter. In past years the New York Central railroad ran week-end ski excursions to the Laurentian mountains north of Montreal, but has had to eliminate them from its 1942 plans because Canadian railways need all possible equipment for the dominion's war effort.

Volleyball at 'Y'
The Y. M. C. A. Volleyball team, according to Dick Thomas, will hold an engagement with the Poughkeepsie club Monday night at the local "Y" starting at 8:15 o'clock.

Table Tennis Champs at "Y"

DOUGLAS CARTLAND

According to an announcement received from Sherwood Davis of the Y. M. C. A. program committee, one of the finest exhibitions of table tennis is scheduled to take place in the new gymnasium at the "Y" Saturday evening at 7:30 o'clock when Harry Cook, Canadian National Singles Champion and holder of the New York and New Jersey State titles, plays Douglas Cartland, Southern States and Manhattan champion, in a series of spectacular exhibition games.

These two young men are on a nationwide tour that will take them over 10,000 miles. Cook, who is known as one of the greatest defensive players in table tennis, stands as far as 15 feet away from the table and makes spectacular leaps which are expected to thrill the Kingston audience. Cartland, on the other hand, is an offensive player and is known for his forehand and backhand drives which will keep Cook on his toes throughout the game.

This exhibition brings to a close a series of local contests which have been going on in the "Y" for the past two weeks. The local champs will be given an opportunity to play the visitors. The exhibition is open to the general public for a nominal fee.

N.Y.U. Alumni Is Starting to Work On Grid Machine

New York, Dec. 5 (AP)—Armed with statements from several recent New York University footballers that there's something wrong with Coach Mal Stevens's system and methods, the Violet's alumni athletes rolled up their sleeves today for a fight to get something done about N. Y. U.'s gloomy gridiron status.

These recent gridiron graduates charged before a general meeting of the Letter Club of former Violet athletes last night that Dr. Mal, who came to N. Y. U. from Yale in 1934, was "only a part time coach on a full-time salary," spending considerable time at his medical practice; that the squad "is not conditioned properly nor correctly schooled in fundamentals," and that, at least in the experience of one varsity performer, "the coaches and trainers were missing several at times and the boys were on their own" during their stay at

Sacred Heart Team Takes 31-24 Game In Catholic League

Walt Tatarzewski Paces Winning Five With 11 Points Over Wilbur in M.J.M. Tilt

The Sacred Heart basketball team scored a 31 to 26 victory over Wilbur last night at the Myron J. Michael School gym in a regular Catholic League contest. Walt Tatarzewski paced the scorers with 11 points.

The Sacred Heart club, also known as the White Eagles, went out in front by 22 to 13 in the first half. In the final two periods Wilbur tried desperately to knot the game but the Sacred Heart basketballers managed to keep an edge and came through with the triumph.

Following Tatarzewski's high scoring feat, George Dougherty also of the winners, came next with 10 points on five fields. Kennedy took the scoring honors for the losing quintet with seven markers.

Greenberg to Say Farewell to Army

Tiger Outfielder Had 180 Days of Soldiering

Fort Custer, Mich., Dec. 5 (AP)—Sergeant Henry Greenberg, who was called from the Detroit Tigers' outfield to become a soldier said farewell to the United States Army today and planned to resume the life of a baseball player.

After 180 days of soldiering, big Hank was ticketed to leave Fort Custer with a host of uniformed men to see him off.

On the eve of his departure, Greenberg declared his biggest thrill of leave-taking was that "now I am able to become a ball-player again."

"Since I've been in the army there hasn't been a chance even to think about baseball," he said. "All that was either in the past or the distant future. But now I can go home to New York, wait for spring and begin training for my old job with the Tigers."

Greenberg, who will be 31 years old January 1, qualified for release under the army ruling that men over 28 may be discharged.

Many Expect to Renew Trade Dickeringings

Jacksonville, Fla., Dec. 5 (AP)—The New York Giants may be rebuilt; the Cleveland Indians may be overhauled; the Cincinnati Reds may get a blood transfusion—but it won't be done in Jacksonville.

While the 40th convention of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues ground to a close, the big leaguers banked the fires of baseball's rumor foundry and headed for Chicago. They streamed forth for next week's major league meeting where many of them are expected to renew dickering for trades which failed to materialize here. Minor league officials wound up the loose ends, closed last-minute deals, signed aggrieved managers and themselves prepared to pack up and head for home.

Suez Canal

The Suez canal is the jugular vein linking Britain with the oil fields of the East and her oriental possessions. Protecting that narrow strip of water is Egypt, one of the mysteries of World War II.

To understand Egypt's position in the present war, you must appreciate her relationship with England. Modern Egypt was a part of Turkey, became a British protectorate in 1914. This expired in 1922, and the country was made a kingdom. British influence remained strong.

The Egyptian government justifies its non-belligerency with the contention that it is living up fully to its obligations under the Anglo-Egyptian treaty of 1936. This provides that if Britain enters a war, Egypt will place at the disposal of the British her airports, harbors and all means of communication. That, say the Egyptians, has been done.

If You Doubt That Wars Distress Designers—Look:

CIVIL WAR

WORLD WAR

PRESENT WAR

AT THE CIVIL WAR'S start, feminine fashions were elaborately fancy with the famed bell-shaped skirt embellished with tiers of graduated flounces. Hardships brought about by war soon had designers in the throes of fantastic experiments. Gradually a completely new style appeared. The bell-shaped skirt era ended completely. Skirt lines fell abruptly to the floor. Sombre, military influences predominated. Suggested epaulets appeared at the shoulders. Then in 1868, after the war, another new contour began to emerge, with great bunches of material at the back.

IN 1914 feathers, frills and the awkward hobble skirts were the vogue. Soon after the outbreak of war in Europe designers again rampaged but found eventually that they had to meet the demand of women filling men's jobs for liberation from corsets and hobble skirts. In 1916 skirts shot up a foot! Our entrance into the war and scarcity of materials placed emphasis on austerity. Heels were lowered by decree in 1918.

IN 1939 the style was puffed shoulders, thin waist and wide, short skirt. What will happen if war continues two more years? Experts disagree. Designers now are going off in a dozen tangents. Some are trying to revive the hobble skirt and others the mannish silhouette of 1922. One New York fashion writer hazards the opinion that abbreviated trousers—with their durability and simplicity—will be in by 1943. She feels they will follow from more bicycling and manual work by women, and from scarcity of materials.

that Russian counter-attacks were also "developing successfully" in the sectors of Klin, 50 miles north of Moscow, and Volokolamsk, 65 miles northwest, as well as in the north about Leningrad.

A Red army bulletin, reporting 4,400 Germans wiped out in fighting before Moscow, said the fiercest action raged in the regions of Volokolamsk and Solnetschnogorski, 31 miles north of the capital.

Soviet military dispatches acknowledged that German troops had scored gains in a thrust from Maloyaroslavets, 65 miles southwest of Moscow, but declared the invaders had failed to reach the strategic objective of the Mzhaisk-Moscow highway.

Two Arrested

Two men were arrested in Kingston Thursday, one for violation of parole and the other as a probation violator. Daniel Collins, 52, of 226 Wall street, the parole violator, was arrested by State Parole Officer William Locke, while Albert Green, 21, of 202 Fair street was arrested by County Probation Officer Lawrence M. Jensen. Both men were held at the Ulster county jail.

Wiltwyck Hose Company Buys Bonds

To Explain Bombs

Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy announced today that the lecture on incendiary bombs by Henry Drake, an instructor from the state national defense council, would be held on Monday evening at 8 o'clock in the Central Fire Station, to be followed by a demonstration of incendiary bombs and the materials used in their construction.

The demonstration will be held in front of the fire station when the materials used in the bombs will be set on fire and the proper use of water in fighting the fire will be demonstrated as well as the use of chemicals.

The lecture and demonstration is open to the public.

Mistaken for Prowler

Cleveland, Dec. 5 (AP)—Mistaken for a prowler, Police Sergeant Edward Maurer, 37, was shot in the left leg by his wife early today as he tip-toed into their bedroom. "I nearly fainted when I discovered what I had done," said Mrs. Violet Maurer, 35. She woke up when he entered the room, reached under a pillow for a small revolver, and fired twice. The officer was returning from a meeting of the Fraternal Order of Police.

LAND BY BALLOT LUCKY

Reuben Hertel of Coonamble, New South Wales, has grown rich since 1904 when he drew 2117 acres in a land ballot. Heroic work was needed to make the rough land pay. In 1914 he added 9,000 acres to his holdings. When sons Jim and Tom left the university the last tract, 3,200 acres, was purchased. The holdings now total 14,117 acres.

Wiltwyck Hose Company Annual Meeting Date Set

The annual meeting and banquet of Wiltwyck Hose Company No. 1 will be held on January 15, 1942. It was decided at a meeting of the company held Thursday evening. Prior to the dinner, which will be held at The Barn, the members will hold a meeting in the rooms of the company on Fair street at which time the annual reports of officers will be given and officers elected for the year. This meeting will take place at 7:30 o'clock.

At the meeting last night, the members acted favorably on making a contribution to the Mayor's Christmas Cheer Fund and also for the purchase of TB Christmas seal bond.

President Betts presented to the treasurer to be placed in the safe deposit box of the company in the bank, the $500 worth of defense bonds which the company voted to purchase at a previous meeting.

Among the committees appointed by the president to report back at the January meeting was one on securing prices on a radio, the committee members being Harry Sparling, Charles Mullen and William Bell, also an auditing committee of which William Edelmuth, Robert Phinney and Andrew Gilday are the members.

Following the meeting a social hour was enjoyed.

RATIONING NOT KNOWN

No rationing exists on the Gold Coast of Africa, the Bishop of Accra writes to London. "Nothing is rationed," he says. "The only drawback is that things like sugar, margarine, and kerosene are not to be had at all, and it is now difficult to get bread when on trek; by the fifth or sixth day what we brought becomes too mouldy even for toast."
